TULE LAKE, CAL., Nov. 10—Lengths to which 16,000 disloyal Japanese went to create their own little Pearl-Harbor on the mainland grew more astonishing today as further disclosures were poured out for investigators of the Tule Lake segregation center.

Former and present War Relocation Authority employees, after relating hitherto undisclosed incidents of violence at the camp, prompted an amazed congressman to accuse WRA officials of having belittled the true situation "for fear that once the Army took over they would lose their jobs."

Rep. Clair Engle, Democrat of California, who has been sitting in at hearing conducted by a California state senate investigating committee, said WRA officials were trying to "perpetuate themselves in office."

"But beyond this," Engle told International News Service, "is the great need for concrete action which will remove once and for all the threat that disturbances such as those which occurred last week may recur."

URGES ARMY CONTROL

Engle advocated permanent army control of Tule Lake's malcontent Japs in concentration camps and the disenfranchisement of all American born Japs who have professed loyalty to Japan. He said he was certain congress "will see the wisdom of these two aims," which he described as the "California viewpoint."

The investigating committee adjourned hearings late last night after having heard more than 30 witnesses who related almost incredible incidents of strikes, sabotage and violence at the center before the army was called in Thursday night to restore order.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 — For "every murdered German soldier 50 Greeks will be shot by German military authorities," the Nazi-controlled Greek press was said today to have warned.

The Office of War Information said the papers in occupied Greece said "attacks on German soldiers have become common," and said that the penalty for wounding of a German soldier will be the shooting of 10 patriots.

New German Weapons And Tactics Fail To Produce
Results For Hitler

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Sixty German submarines were revealed today to have been sunk in the last three months with the attrition rate of U-boat losses to merchant ship sinkings in October "more satisfactory than in any previous month."

An Office of War Information statement issued under the joint authority of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill disclosed that more than 150 Axis submarines have been destroyed in the last six months.

The authoritative British Press Association estimated that between 700 and 800 Nazi U-boats have been sunk since the beginning of the war.

Mr. Roosevelt told his news conference that merchant ship tonnage lost in August was the lowest on record, but added that the October ration of U-boats destroyed and cargo vessels sunk proved to be the best combination month of the war.

The statement also hailed the success of Allied air and naval units in combatting new Nazi U-boats weapons and tactics.

"The record of the last three months is particularly gratifying because during most this period fewer U-boats were operating, fewer targets were presented for our air and sea forces," the statement said.

Merchant ship tonnage lost to U-boat action during the three month period was less than one-half the merchant ship tonnage lost during the previous three months, despite the fact that actual shipping increased.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT
FIRE DIRECTOR
DREAM'S RESULT

SUMMIT, N. J., Nov. 10—Army officials disclosed today that enemy planes are being blasted from the sky on widely separated war fronts with the aid of an anti-aircraft gun director literally "dreamed up" by a young Bell Telephone Laboratories physicist.

It all began back in 1940. After reading of the Nazi invasion of the low countries, Dr. David B. Parkinson went to bed and dreamed he was a member of an anti-aircraft gun crew which downed an enemy plane with every shot by means of a new computer.

Parkinson, then only 20, next day set to work developing a device which would instantly estimate the changing position of a target electrically, set the fuse of ack-ack shells and time the firing so the shells would explode within lethal distance of the enemy.

The result was the M-9 director, long in use, but demonstrated publicly for the first time yesterday at the Bell plant near Murray Hill, N. J., before 1,400 persons.

Ordnance Chief Maj. General Alexander A. Vandegrift said the M-9 enabled crews of 90 mm guns in the South Pacific to knock down one enemy plane for every 90 rounds of ammunition used. In the first world war, he said, planes were hit—not necessarily destroyed—once for every 17,000 rounds.

LONDON, Nov. 10—A series of disturbances, including shootings, in several large German cities were reported today in a dispatch to the Daily Express from Stockholm.

According to a report to the Gothenburg Handels Tidning the disturbances took place in Essen, Cologne, Duesseldorf, Mannheim, Hanover and Hamburg. All of these cities have suffered heavily in the Allied aerial war against Germany.

The report, although unconfirmed, was attributed to German sources.

Soviet Girl Defies Nazi Hangmen

DEFIANCE in the face of death was summoned up by Zoya Kosmodemyanskaya, 17-year-old Soviet girl of the village of Petrichshevchevo, who was peremptorily hanged by the Nazi invaders. As she was led to the gallows, top photo, she fought with her captors. When the noose was placed around her neck, she managed to cry, "Farewell, comrades, Stalin is with us. Stalin will come," before she was yanked into the air to hang limply from the gallows, lower photo. These photos were found on the body of a German officer killed in action near Smolensk. The execution has been added to the list of war crimes for which the Nazis will be forced to answer under the terms of the recent Moscow agreement.

Auto Tire Situation
To Remain Tight For
At Least Six Months

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Rubber Director Bradley Dewey disclosed today that although synthetic rubber production is progressing rapidly, tire supplies for civilian motorists will continue at a low ebb for at least six or nine months.

In the fourth progress report from the rubber director's office, Dewey told auto drivers they must continue to conserve tires despite the fact that 30 million synthetics will be built next year.

"Synthetic rubber production is in good shape," Dewey declared, "although the tire situation remains tight, and will continue so for at least the next six to nine months."

The director also revealed that by early 1944 all plants in the synthetic rubber program will be in operation.

"But," he warned, "availability of synthetic rubber does not immediately assure an adequate number of tires. The necessary production of tires requires plant facility expansions that will not be completed until well into 1944."

Major item retarding the production of synthetic rubber tires, he said, is lack of high tenacity rayon and cotton tire cords, output of which will not come into operation for almost a year.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—The president of the puppet national assembly in occupied Albania, Idhomone Kosturi, has been assassinated, the Tirana radio disclosed today. LIQUID DIVIDEND
PUTS STOCK IN DIZZY ASCENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—The Tom Moore Distillery Company of Bardonia, N. Y., sure started something when its directors hit on the idea of declaring a "liquid dividend."

The idea is simple. The board decided that, instead of selling that part of its production and making the company liable for a 60 percent excess profits tax, it would vote a dividend of 27 original proof gallons of pure bourbon whiskey instead of cash for each outstanding share of common stock.

Maybe the impending liquor shortage is the reason, but no sooner had the announcement been made that a drinkable dividend would be given to stockholders of record November 26, than market value of the 25-dollar par-value stock soared to $160 a share.

President Admits Change
In Little Steel Formula
Is Possibility

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Congressional observers predicted a break today in the administration's hold-the-line price policy with a consequent boost in wages and a certain increase in the cost of living.

Leaders of the congressional "farm bloc"—themselves accused of seeking to break down the year-old stabilization program—said that an increase in the wage scale automatically boosts food price ceilings.

Speculation that the administration is hard pressed to hold the anti-inflation line reached new heights when President Roosevelt was asked at his new conference if there was any move afoot to scrap the "Little Steel" formula which forbids general wage increases of more than 15 percent above the level of January 1, 1941.

Mr. Roosevelt replied that the whole question of the cost of living was being studied in relation to present average incomes to determine if there is any need for changing the formula. Labor contends the cost of living has risen more than 15 percent.

GRANGE MASTER
RAPS THREAT TO PUBLIC RIGHTS

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 10 — Albert S. Goss, National Grange master, told the opening session of the 77th annual Grange convention today that the executive branch of the government is dangerously encroaching on the powers of congress and the rights of the people.

"Unless we hold fast to sound constitutional principles, our coming victory over the Axis will prove in vain," the farm leader declared.

"Under powers delegated to the executive," he continued, "abuses are occurring which seriously impair our rights and affect our daily lives. This lawlessness is strangling production and must be stopped."

Goss asserted that "blundering OPA ceiling policies" have created many shortages.

"The theory that inflation can be controlled by freezing all prices has never worked because it is impossible to freeze all costs," he said. "When rising costs bump into the ceilings, production is strangled and when production is shut off, consumer supplies decline and the inflationary gap widens."

The Grange leader called for a new formula for calculating parity, terming the present method "grossly inadequate" because it omits the cost of farm labor. He also stated his opposition to national service legislation.

INTUITION FAILS
SO HITLER TRIES
AMERICAN IDEAS

LONDON, Nov. 10 — His intuition having failed him, Adolf Hitler today was reported aping the success story of America's Henry Kaiser.

Stockholm dispatches quoted by Reuters said that reports from Germany indicate the Nazi leader has ordered the mass production of 200 Hansa ships by the same methods used in turning out American Liberty ships.

Political Dictatorship
Over France Seen As DeGaulle's Objective

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Official Washington believes today that General Charles De Gaulle, co-president of the French national liberation committee, is moving to establish a political dictatorship over the French empire.

Resignation of General Henri Giraud, commander-in-chief of the French North African forces, as co-president of the committee is considered a direct move by De Gaulle to gain complete political control over all French affairs.

General Giraud's resignation is known to have been forced by the Gaullists. Giraud was disliked by them because of his lenient political views and his friendly attitude toward the United States.

His resignation is being viewed with considerable concern in official Washington circles, where he was regarded as one of the few present French leaders more interested in fighting Germany than in political squabbling.

GIRAUD OUSTER SOUGHT

The Gaullists also are known to be eager to remove General Giraud as commander of all French forces. When this danger arose last Summer, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean area, stepped in and warned that any such move would be contrary to Allied military interests.

Should a renewed attempt be made by the Gaullists to get rid of General Giraud as military leader it is expected the American government would again intervene. The possibility is seen that this government might even go so far as to threaten to withdraw the agreement President Roosevelt made with Giraud to arm and equip the French North African army.

WARNING SOUNDED

Authoritative sources pointed out this agreement was made with General Giraud as commander-in-chief of all French forces in North Africa. It was not made with the French national committee. Therefore, if General Giraud should be ousted as military commander of the French forces, this government would be in a position to consider the agreement void.

General De Gaulle's bid for complete political power coincides with what official Washington regards as a growing anti-American and anti-British attitude among his followers.

Disturbing reports have been received by American officials concerning the extent to which the Gaullists have been arousing French hatred of the United States and Great Britain. Word is being spread among the French that the two English-speaking nations do not want to see France resume her position as a great power in the world.

Blame America

The French, especially the Gaullists, are particularly resentful because they were excluded from the European advisory council established by the Moscow pact to consider problems relating to the political future of Europe. They are blaming the United States chiefly for their exclusion from this council.

The attitude of official Washington is that a single political group, such as the Gaullists, cannot make long-term postwar commitments on behalf of France. The view in Washington is that such commitments can be made only by a government which has been chosen by the free will of the French people, and therefore definitely represents them.

FRANKIE'S TIES

CHICAGO, Nov. 10—This may be a severe blow to Winston Churchill's sartorial pride, but the word was spread around today that the bow tie affected by Britain's premier rapidly is being displaced in popular favor by Frankie Sinatra's.

The dire news came from tie exhibitors at the Chicago men's and boys' wear market. Churchill's bow tie runs to solid colors and is square at the ends, or so the experts said, while the swoon-king's has polka-dot patterns with the pointed ends that are supposed to lend a wistful, little-boy appeal that is no less than devastating.

Germans Facing Debacle
In North—Japs Seek To

By International News Service

The British Eighth Army continued its northward march through Italy today and Allied airmen pounded vital German military and industrial targets in a two-way offensive.

A communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced that the Britons—veterans of El Alamein, Tunisia, and Sicily—had pressed forward to capture Castiglione, Carovilli and Forli.

Operations of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's American Fifth Army, meanwhile, were hampered by bad weather.

Castiglione is situated some 23 miles southwest of captured Vasto, and its fall is obviously the result of the turning of the eastern end of the Nazis' transpeninsular battlefield.

Eisenhower's headquarters also revealed that American heavy bombers carried out devastating blows against two more vital Nazi-held armament plants in northern Italy. While mighty Flying Fortresses blasted the Ansaldo steel works at Genoa, whale-like Liberators hammered the ball-bearing factory at Villar Perosa, southwest of Turin. The Fiat ball-bearing plant was shattered in the latter city only two days ago.

BOMBERS ACTIVE

At the top of Hitler's fortress Europa, British Mosquito bombers attacked targets in western Germany for the sixth successive night. The air ministry communique failed to identify the objectives of the British-based bombers, and simultaneously announced that aircraft of the fighter command conducted intruder patrols and attacked enemy targets in France and Belgium. In these operations, only one fighter was listed as missing.

In Russia, the Nazi high command faced a debacle, as the Red Army surged ever closer to the Polish and Latvian borders. Fanning out west of Kiev, third large city in Russia, the Soviet forces drove within 58 miles of the important rail junction of Korosten; in the Nevel section of White Russia, other Russian troops fought off fierce German counterattacks and improved their positions.

Red Trap Closing

The German Crimean garrison felt the slowly contracting steel trap being forged around that strategic peninsula. One unconfirmed report by the British radio said the Red Army already had captured the vital rail terminus of Kerch, but all the Soviet high command reported was that its forces had gained northeast and south of that town on the Kerch peninsula. Another unverified report said a full-scale Red Army offensive had been launched on the Perekop isthmus, northern corridor to the Crimea.

The Japanese were making a desperate attempt to stave off complete defeat in the Solomon Islands. (Continued on Page Two)

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 10—Special Technician Franklin E. Higgins, 22, of the Army Signal Corps was speeding home today on a 1,200-mile trip from Camp Crowder, Mo., in a race with death which threatened momentarily to take his 17-year-old dog, Pal.

Pal, now at a canine age equivalent to that of a 90-year-old man, began to fall soon after his young master enlisted last July. Pal's condition grew worse suddenly Saturday and Higgins was notified. Through the Red Cross, he won an emergency furlough.

Pal is expected to die tomorrow—the day Higgins' train is due in Albany.

After Summations

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 10—With the life of Count Alfred De Marigny in the balance, opposing counsel today began summations in the trial of the dapper young French nobleman who is charged with slaying his wealthy father-in-law.

The blue-ribbon all-male jury of Bahamas supreme court is expected to get the case tomorrow, but first Chief Defense Attorney Godfrey Higgs will be followed in summing up by Attorney-General Eric Hallinan. Then Chief Justice Sir Oscar Daly must issue his instructions to the jury.

Final defense witness—and the court's legal staff brought 17 to the witness box—was pretty 19-year-old Nancy Oakes De Marigny, wife of the defendant and daughter of Sir Harry Oakes, whose bludgeoned and burned body was found in a flame-seared bedroom July 8.

Entering the court room to testify, after being restricted due to British court procedure throughout the nearly-three-weeks trial, the countess provided the climax, after which Higgs rested the defense's case.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—Sixty German submarines were revealed today to have been sunk in the last three months with the attrition rate of U-boat losses to merchant ship sinkings in October "more satisfactory than in any previous month."

An Office of War Information statement issued under the joint authority of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill disclosed that more than 150 Axis submarines have been destroyed in the last six months.

Resignation of General Henri Giraud, commander-in-chief of the French North African forces, as co-president of the committee is considered a direct move by De Gaulle to gain complete political control over all French affairs.

General Giraud's resignation is known to have been forced by the Gaullists. Giraud was disliked by them because of his lenient political views and his friendly attitude toward the United States.

His resignation is being viewed with considerable concern in official Washington circles, where he was regarded as one of the few present French leaders more interested in fighting Germany than in political squabbling.

Should a renewed attempt be made by the Gaullists to get rid of General Giraud as military leader it is expected the American government would again intervene. The possibility is seen that this government might even go so far as to threaten to withdraw the agreement President Roosevelt made with Giraud to arm and equip the French North African army.

Authoritative sources pointed out this agreement was made with General Giraud as commander-in-chief of all French forces in North Africa. It was not made with the French national committee. Therefore, if General Giraud should be ousted as military commander of the French forces, this government would be in a position to consider the agreement void.

General De Gaulle's bid for complete political power coincides with what official Washington regards as a growing anti-American and anti-British attitude among his followers.

Disturbing reports have been received by American officials concerning the extent to which the Gaullists have been arousing French hatred of the United States and Great Britain. Word is being spread among the French that the two English-speaking nations do not want to see France resume her position as a great power in the world.

Blame America

The French, especially the Gaullists, are particularly resentful because they were excluded from the European advisory council established by the Moscow pact to consider problems relating to the political future of Europe. They are blaming the United States chiefly for their exclusion from this council.

The attitude of official Washington is that a single political group, such as the Gaullists, cannot make long-term postwar commitments on behalf of France. The view in Washington is that such commitments can be made only by a government which has been chosen by the free will of the French people, and therefore definitely represents them.

FRANKIE'S TIES MORE POPULAR THAN WINSTON'S

CHICAGO, Nov. 10—This may be a severe blow to Winston Churchill's sartorial pride, but the word was spread around today that the bow tie affected by Britain's premier rapidly is being displaced in popular favor by Frankie Sinatra's.

The dire news came from tie exhibitors at the Chicago men's and boys' wear market.

Churchill's bow tie runs to solid colors and is square at the ends, or so the experts said, while the swoon-king's has polka-dot patterns with the pointed ends that are supposed to lend a wistful, little-boy appeal that is no less than devastating.

COUNT'S TRIAL IN FINAL STAGE

All Male Jury Expected
To Start Deliberation
After Summations

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 10—With the life of Count Alfred De Marigny in the balance, opposing counsel today began summations in the trial of the dapper young French nobleman who is charged with slaying his wealthy father-in-law.

The blue-ribbon all-male jury of Bahamas supreme court is expected to get the case tomorrow, but first Chief Defense Attorney Godfrey Higgs will be followed in summing up by Attorney-General Eric Hallinan. Then Chief Justice Sir Oscar Daly must issue his instructions to the jury.

Final defense witness—and the court's legal staff brought 17 to the witness box—was pretty 19-year-old Naney Oakes De Marigny, wife of the defendant and daughter of Sir Harry Oakes, whose bludgeoned and burned body was found in a flame-seared bedroom July 8.

Entering the court room to testify, after being restricted due to British court procedure throughout the nearly-three-weeks trial, the countess provided the climax, after which Higgs rested the defense's case.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Doris Duke Cromwell, heiress to a 300 million-dollar tobacco fortune, was in New York today—home from Reno to fight the New Jersey divorce counter-suit of her husband, James H. R. #### RUSS CONTINUE MARCH

In North—Japs Seek To
Save Bougainville

By International News Service
The British Eighth Army continued its northward march through Italy today and Allied airmen pounded vital German military and industrial targets in a two-way offensive.

A communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced that the Britons—veterans of El Alamein, Tunisia, and Sicily—had pressed forward to capture Castiglione, Carovilli and Forli.

Operations of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's American Fifth Army, meanwhile, were hampered by bad weather.

Castiglione is situated some 23 miles southwest of captured Vasto, and its fall is obviously the result of the turning of the eastern end of the Nazis' transpeninsular battleline.

Eisenhower's headquarters also revealed that American heavy bombers carried out devastating blows against two more vital Nazi-held armament plants in northern Italy. While mighty Flying Fortresses blasted the Ansaldo steel works at Genoa, whale-like Liberators hammered the ball-bearing factory at Villar Perosa, southwest of Turin. The Fiat ball-bearing plant was shattered in the latter city only two days ago.

Bombers Active

At the top of Hitler's fortress Europa, British Mosquito bombers attacked targets in western Germany for the sixth successive night. The air ministry communique failed to identify the objectives of the British-based bombers, and simultaneously announced that aircraft of the fighter command conducted intruder patrols and attacked enemy targets in France and Belgium. In these operations, only one fighter was listed as missing.

In Russia, the Nazi high command faced a debacle, as the Red Army surged ever closer to the Polish and Latvian borders. Fanning out west of Kiev, third largest city in Russia, the Soviet forces drove within 58 miles of the important rail junction of Korosten; in the Nevel section of White Russia, other Russian troops fought off fierce German counterattacks and improved their positions.

Red Trap Closing

The German Crimean garrison felt the slowly contracting steel trap being forged around that strategic peninsula. One unconfirmed report by the British radio said the Red Army already had captured the vital rail terminus of Kerch, but all the Soviet high command reported was that its forces had gained northeast and south of that town on the Kerch peninsula. Another unverified report said a full-scale Red Army offensive had been launched on the Perekop isthmus, northern corridor to the Crimea.

SOLDIER GAINS LEAVE TO RACE TO DYING DOG

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 10—Special Technician Franklin E. Higgins, 22, of the Army Signal Corps was speeding home today on a 1,200-mile trip from Camp Crowder, Mo., in a race with death which threatened momentarily to take his 17-year-old dog, Pal.

Pal, now at a canine age equivalent to that of a 90-year-old man, began to fall soon after his young master enlisted last July. Pal's condition grew worse suddenly Saturday and Higgins was notified. Through the Red Cross, he won an emergency furlough.

Pal is expected to die tomorrow—the day Higgins' train is due in Albany.

where the United States Marines already were operating on their last stronghold of Bougainville. An amphibious enemy force put ashore several hundred reinforcements from 21 barges under cover of darkness, and the Yank forces threw tanks, artillery and planes into the battle immediately. Several Jap landing boats were destroyed, but further details of the fighting around the Laruma river were lacking.

Jap Bases Battered

Allied airmen battered the three main Japanese bases at Kahili, Kieta and on nearby Buka island. Though weather hampered air operations on New Guinea, other United Nations flyers hammered at land and sea targets in the New Ireland-New Britain areas, and set fires in a raid on the naval base at Ambon.

Secretary of the Navy Knox described the Japanese position in the southwest Pacific as "more critical... than ever before in this area." He cited the battering of six enemy heavy cruisers in a recent engagement with units of Admiral William F. Halsey's fleet as "nothing short of disaster."

The Balkan situation was going adversely for the enemy, too, with units of the free Yugoslavian army holding the Macedonian town of Stip, some 40 miles from both the Greek and Bulgarian borders. Montenegrin patriot forces recaptured Andrijevick, causing heavy casualties among the Nazi garrison, while Slovenian partisans determinedly resisted strong German tank attacks in five sectors.

JAP UPRISING FACTS HIDDEN, SOLON CLAIMS

Fear Of Losing Positions Cause Of Delay In Call To Army, Is Claim

to President Roosevelt and the California delegation in congress, said:

"From our findings we are unanimously in favor of the U. S. Army remaining in control of the Tule Lake camp. We will make further recommendations as soon as we have had opportunity to study the testimony taken by us."

WRA Criticized

Sen. Hugh Donnelly, committee chairman, declared that it was evident that the War Relocation Authority "is not eligible to continue in control at Tule Lake." He added that the committee would "have plenty to say" later.

Rep. Engle's statement followed a night session of the state senate investigation at which Mrs. Eva Adams, WRA school teacher, told how she had written her will during the November 1 uprising at the camp.

Mrs. Adams said she was so certain that she would not live through the tumultuous November 1 demonstration staged by several thousand Japs that she hastily scribbled her last testament.

"I wasn't frightened until some Japs pushed me into the administration building and slammed the door on me," the school teacher declared. "When I heard the crowd outside and saw what was going on in the building, I wrote my will."

Extravagant Demands

Previous witnesses related that a committee of 17 Japs had stomped into the administration building No. 1 to present "extravagant demands" to National WRA Director Dillon S. Myer, regional director Robert Cozzens, and Ray Best, project manager.

While the WRA officials talked with the protest committee, a crowd of several thousand Japs gathered outside the building, a number of others invaded the project hospital to prevent the white staff from leaving, and a group of Jap technicians set up a public address system near the administration building.

The hospital's chief surgeon was badly beaten and other White WRA employees were "shoved around" during the demonstration, which ended after Myer and Cozzens, who had been held virtual hostages by the committee of 17, made impromptu talks to the menacing crowd outside.

The situation, however, grew worse after Best ordered posting of notices forbidding any more large gatherings or demonstrations, and when Best overheard groups of sullen Japs muttering threats to "get" him, he called in the army Thursday night. He did so only minutes before telephone lines from his office to the military command post outside the camp were severed.

Soldiers Restore Order

One thousand soldiers with "Tommy" guns soon restored order among the recalcitrant Japs and were reported to have made a house to house search of the vast camp, seeking contraband and ring leaders of the demonstrators.

Four hundred so called "Red Hots," according to groups connected with the investigating committee, were rounded up by the military and were moved today into a separate stockade within the camp. In addition to these agitators, a number of others were removed from the camp several days ago and lodged in jail at Klamath Falls.

All civilians, with the exception of WRA personnel, were barred from the camp by army order. Reports that a short wave radio set existed within the Japanese housing area of the center were probably explained by the testimony of Rev. R. E. McNaughton of the Oakland Evangelistic Association.

Rev. McNaughton, who had been a missionary in Japan for 13 years and is now employed as a missionary at the segregation center, told of having picked up recordings of Japanese music on his home radio set in Tule Lake, eight miles from the camp site.

He said he and other residents of the community finally traced these mysterious broadcasts to an electrical phonograph turntable operated by the Japanese at the center and broadcast over the public address system. The device, it was discovered, is capable of broadcasting radio waves for a short distance.

Kent Silvertown, WRA attorney on the project, said he also had heard the Japanese recordings on his own radio set and had traced them to the camp public address system.

Rev. McNaughton said he never 30,000,000 synthetic tires for 1944. His report showed that 17,200,000 tires of all kinds—new, used, and reclaimed—were distributed this year compared with only 4,700,000 in 1942.

Synthetic rubber production plants, as of October 31, 1943, have a rated annual capacity of 646,000 long tons of rubber, Dewey revealed. Eighty-seven percent of the butadiene-from-alcohol plants have been completed and 89 percent of those producing butadiene from petroleum are also finished, his report stated.

Listing conservation of the nation's crude rubber stockpile as a "most important concern," Dewey said that imports for 1943 are expected to total 60,000 long tons, but anticipated that 1944 imports will be bolstered by increased shipments from British territory and will be about a third greater than this year.

"Even with an adequate production of synthetics, some crude is necessary for the large, heavy duty tires—even when rayon cord is available," Dewey said.

Tremendous military requirements, calling for large-sized tires for combat vehicles and airplanes, seriously deplete rubber for civilian consumption, Dewey pointed out.

heard anything of a military secret nature on these broadcasts, a statement he backed up by saying he had a sufficient knowledge of the Japanese language to know what was coming out of the loud speaker.

Consider Probe

At the conclusion of the senate committee hearing, Congressman Engle called a meeting of the Tule Lake War Council to decide whether to conduct an independent investigation pending the arrival of Dies committee representatives.

Clark W. Fensler, Tule Lake's OCD chairman and American Legion leader, said "this entire community wants the Jap segregation center to remain permanently under army control."

"This is a community of war veterans," he said, "and most of us have sons and daughters in the armed forces of the United States."

"The center was a powder keg before the army took over. We were all jittery, but we all had rifles and we know how to use them."

Repercussions of last week's violent outbreaks reached the international stage yesterday after the imperial Japanese government requested the Franco Spanish government to investigate conditions at the center.

A Spanish intermediary, Consul F. de Amat of San Francisco, visited the strife-torn camp accompanied by a representative of the U. S. state department.

Tokyo Protests

Amat's arrival at the center followed by less than twenty-four hours a German broadcast of a Tokyo dispatch protesting "mistreatment" of Jap internees in the United States.

The Franco government has been acting for Japan in all matters pertaining to Jap prisoners or internees in this country.

Regional WRA Director Cozzens, one of the chief witnesses before the investigating committee, blamed the center's troubles on fanatically loyal Japs who went to Japan from this country and returned after being taught "Japanese culture."

Other witnesses told the committee that Dillon Myer and Ray Best had told them not to give orders to the Japs but to make "suggestions."

Another witness, his face slashed and bruised, was Edward H. Borbeck, a civilian guard at the camp who was present when several of the civilian employees, including Myer and Best, were held virtual prisoners in the administration building while a mob gathered outside.

Borbeck related how, unarmed, he had been slugged to the ground by ten Japs who told him: "We're going to kill you." Borbeck admitted that he swung first when he realized his predicament.

That the 16,000 disloyal Japs had drawn up a long range plan to arm themselves was evidenced by the startling disclosure that more than 1,000 keen-edged butcher knives had been stolen from various mess halls and kitchen and warehouses.

Such testimony was offered by Noble C. Wilkinson, until recently chief project butcher and assistant steward, who also declared that more than fifty emery wheels in the camp machine shop had been worn out by the Japs in fashioning knives.

The home made knives, Wilkinson said, were manufactured by the Japs from springs taken from sabotaged automobiles.

BREAK SEEN IN HOLD-THE-LINE PRICE POLICY

Consequent Boost In Wages, Increased Cost Of Living Looms

bor Frances Perkins as the first step in its investigation. WLB Chairman William H. Davis expressed belief a few days ago that the working class was being asked to carry an unfair share of the anti-inflation burden.

With both labor and some farm groups pressing for higher wages and prices, few congressional leaders, however, believe that the President can maintain the stabilization policy.

Situation Outlined

The situation, as seen by congressional observers, is as follows:

1. Pay raises for 540,000 miners broke the "Little Steel" formula; demands for general pay boosts by CIO's 900,000 steel workers and strike threats by 1,500,00 railroad workers are almost certain to shatter it.

2. An increase in labor costs automatically raises parity prices for agricultural products. Since the maximum price ceiling is parity, this means maximum food prices would rise.

3. In addition the "farm bloc" is demanding abolition of roll-back subsidies, which the administration hopes would hold down meat, butter, milk and other food prices.

The "Little Steel" wage formula was a presidential order. Thus, congress will take no action on labor's demand with possible exception of railroad wage boosts.

Subsidy Bill Up

The house, however, has before it a bill banning the administration's $800,000,000 subsidy program to hold down food prices. Despite efforts of administration leaders to work out a compromise, none appears likely.

"The surrender to John L. Lewis on wages opens the flood gates to practically all demands for wage increases," said Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D) Va. "It means both an invitation to everyone else to strike and paves the way for inflationary increases."

Sen. John H. Bankhead (D) Ala., who helped draft the stabilization bill, denied that farmers seek to break down the hold-the-line program.

"If the 'Little Steel' formula is scrapped and wages rise, there will be an increase in the cost of living," he said. "Parity prices would automatically rise."

"We who are seeking to protect farmers are not making a fight for an increase in prices, except for milk. The farmers are making no general demand. The department of agriculture recognizes that farmers can't continue to produce milk under the present price level because of drought and increases in feed prices."

Sen. Carl Hatch (D) N. H., who sought to work out a compromise with the administration on the subsidy issue, said:

"After the action in raising coal miners' wages I fear there will be other increases. I fear the ill effect on the stabilization program. If wages are increased farm prices must be raised. I have not been able to find a compromise."

Sen. Harry Truman (D) Mo., predicted that the senate interstate commerce committee will report favorably his resolution calling for the grant of an eight-cent-an-hour increase to railroad workers in accordance with the management-labor agreement.

"I am convinced this is a just arrangement and I see no ill effect on the stabilization program," he said. "It provides necessary increases for common labor. Congress did the same for the government 'white collar' worker. I do not think it breaks the 'Little Steel' formula."

The inflation situation, some senators said, is moving rapidly toward a crisis with a decision probable within a month.

BRICKER'S NAME ON OHIO TICKET FOR PRESIDENCY

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 10—Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio said today that his name will be entered in the Ohio primary next May 14 as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Bricker has not yet announced himself as a candidate for the presidency, but is considered an aggressive aspirant for the nomination.

At a press conference here, the governor asserted "there is no question in my mind—the New Deal is through and the American public is through with it."

Encouraged by recent elections in Kentucky, New York and New Jersey, Bricker said the country will elect a Republican president next year, even if the nation is still at war.

MINERS DEMAND DOLLAR A DAY WAGE INCREASE

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 10—Charges that President Roosevelt's hold-the-line order and the War Labor Board's "Little Steel" formula already have been scrapped were filed today before the non-ferrous metals commission of the WLB in Salt Lake City.

The accusation was made by Ralph H. Rasmussen, vice president of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO), in presentation of a demand for wage increases of $1.30 to $2.30 per day for thousands of metal miners in 11 western states.

ELLA WITTICH MEARNS WILL DIVIDE ESTATE

Will of the late Ella Wittich Mearns, admitted to probate Wednesday by Judge Lemuel B. Weldon, makes numerous bequests to members of the immediate family.

The estate is estimated to be worth $45,000 of which $40,000 is in personal property.

Mrs. Mearns gives $6,000 of her property to her daughter, Miss Lillian Mearns of Columbus, and also gives the daughter a life estate in all property left after other bequests are made. Other bequests include $1,000 to a brother, Frank; $2,000 to each of two nephews, Fred and Loring Wittich; $4,000 to Helen Wittich Weart, a niece, and several smaller bequests to other relatives and friends. Her interest in the Wittich block, West Main street, is given to her brother Frank.

Carl C. Leist is named trustee with Frank Wittich to serve as executor. The will was written August 12, 1943.

OLD RECORD OF DEEDS PRESENTED TO COUNTY

A valuable abstract of land titles in Circleville dating from 1812 when the first deeds were filed in the Pickaway county courthouse up to the late 1880s has been presented to the county recorder's office by the Wittich family.

The volume, which covers early records of 1,500 Circleville lots, will prove to be a valuable addition to the office of Mrs. Florence Campbell since attorneys and others seeking to trace titles back to the early 1800s will be able to use it.

While the book was the property of the late Sam C. Gamble, much of the work in it was done by the late Michael Sweetman. Both did much work as abstractors years ago.

ly, they heard Nancy come loyally to the support of her thrice-married, twice divorced husband. She told of their marriage two days after she attained the age at which parents' consent was not required and admitted they did not have the blessings of her parents.

The comely countess told of being informed of details of the slaying.

"Did Barker (Capt. James O. Barker, Miami fingerprint expert) tell you over the telephone that there was no question of who who killed your father?" Higgs asked.

"Yes, he said it was done by my husband," Nancy replied, glancing toward the prisoner's dock where her husband watched attentively.

She quoted Barker as telling her that De Marigny's fingerprints were found on a bedspread in the murder room. The crown has introduced prints which they declare were made by the count and taken from that screen. Two defense witnesses—both fingerprint experts—however, have testified that the one "transfer" smudge could not have come from that piece of furniture.

Following her appearance in court, Nancy visited her husband in prison and cheered him for the ordeal of awaiting the verdict. De Marigny is reported to be confident of an acquittal and is pleased with the manner in which his wife conducted herself on the stand.

Local sentiment, which at the time of his arrest had been against De Marigny, has shifted strongly in his favor during the last few days of the trial.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—"This trolley on ride if transfer without you go."

This sample of the vagaries of the Japanese tongue—which means only "no transfers accepted on this trolley car"—demonstrates why a special class in advanced Japanese, begun last year with 60 students, today had dwindled to four.

The Jap lingo was simply too tough for half the original class to master. Others left to continue their studies in special services of the armed forces.

Besides the four survivors of the advanced class, however, Columbia's Japanese department has 34 other students, 10 of them women.

TAX RATES TO BE STUDIED BY BUDGET BOARD

Tax rates for 1944 in all Pickaway county subdivisions will be studied beginning Friday when the Pickaway county Budget Commission starts a series of meetings. All subdivisions, including corporations, township and boards of education, will be represented.

The Budget Commission includes Auditor Forrest Short, Treasurer Robert G. Colville and Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt.

The schedule as announced by the auditor's office follows:

Friday, November 12
9 a. m., Circleville township; 10 a. m., Deer Creek township; 11 a. m., Jackson township.
1 p. m., Madison township; 2 p. m., Harrison township; 3 p. m., Perry township.
Tuesday, November 16
9 a. m., Pickaway township; 10 a. m., Darby township; 11 a. m., Monroe township.
1 p. m., Muhlenberg township; 2 p. m., Salt Creek township; 3 p. m., Scioto township.
Wednesday, November 17
9 a. m., Walnut township; 10 a. m., Washington township; 11 a. m., Wayne township.

SHORTAGE OF COPPERS BRINGS BANK APPEAL

Circleville banks issued an appeal Wednesday to residents of the city to refrain from hoarding pennies.

Operators of the city's financial institutions are not trying to coax local residents to stop being thrifty, but they do express urgent need for a supply of pennies.

Cause of the shortage is not explained by the bankers, who declare that day after day their supply of pennies becomes shorter.

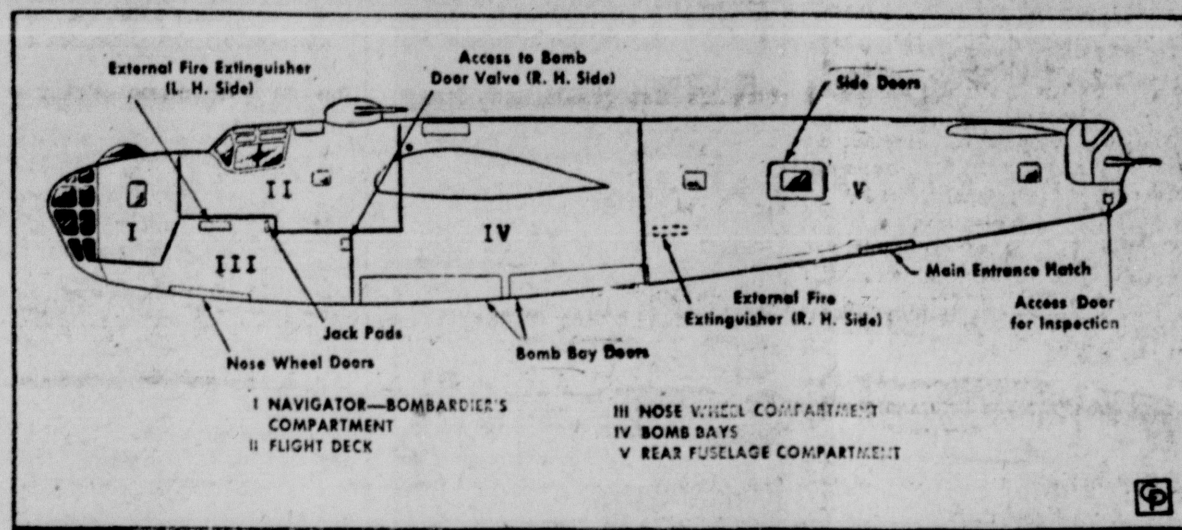

The government plans to cease production of zinc-coated steel pennies on January 1. After that date pennies will be minted from the reclaimed copper alloy of expended cartridge shells, but there is no indication that production of pennies will be increased.

AUTO TIRE STOLEN

Ralph Stevens, Circleville Route 1, told police Tuesday that a tire had been stolen from his parked automobile.

"PREPARE FOR DITCHING!" CALLS THE PILOT

Here's What Liberator Bomber Crew Members Do When Their Big Four-Motored Ship Is Forced Down at Sea

THIS WAY OUT—Here are the access doors and openings of the Liberator.

By ANDREW R. BOONE
Central Press Writer

FARTHER AND farther across the seas roam the Liberators in search of the enemy and his installations.

With these long flights, dangers of descent on the oceans multiply. Flak may disable the primary structure or knock out the engine. How will the crew escape when the pilot speaks calmly into the interphone, "Prepare for ditching?"

Here, in simply told, easily understood steps, are the instructions prepared by Consolidated Vultee Aircraft corporation's engineers, men who know the great planes intimately:

Preparation for ditching.

1. Pilot radios on command transmitter to contact other airplanes, surface craft or nearby shore stations.
2. Co-pilot helps pilot with controls.
3. Radio operator radios on liaison transmitter to contact more distant stations (ship and shore). At night, radio operator fires M-8 signal pistol.
4. Bombardier opens bomb bay doors, salvoes bombs, closes bomb bay doors.
5. Radio operator releases top escape hatch in top of flight deck.
6. Side gunner(s) secures main entrance (turret gun) hatch.
7. Tail turret gunner leaves turret and takes ditching position aft of station 6.

Ditching.

1. Pilot, co-pilot, radio operator and bombardier make sure safety belt and parachute harness are secure.
2. Pilot warns crew of "ditching," using interphone set at "CALL."
3. Gunners brace themselves against aft face of bulkhead 6, holding neck with both hands.

After ditching.

1. Bombardier unlatches escape hatch (astrodome) in nose compartment and escapes.
2. Radio operator releases life rafts and drops emergency transmitter overboard.
3. Pilot and co-pilot escape via top escape hatch and assist bombardier.

DOWN!—These drawings illustrate escape of crew members of bomber after forced descent at sea.

Boarding life raft.

1. First crew member in each raft shall steady raft alongside the airplane and each crew member shall assist the next one aboard.
2. Do not jump into raft from airplane.

Aboard life raft.

1. Cast off and recover radio transmitter.
2. Check for leaks and repair same.

Little is left to chance that the crew may find safety. A self-contained portable radio transmitter, type SCR 578-A, is provided for operation aboard the raft, or anywhere away from the airplane that a kite can be flown, or where water can be found. This unit is usually stowed in the aft end of the radio compartment next to the transmitter tuning sets.

The set is waterproof and will float. No precautions are necessary to keep the equipment out of the water, except that it not be allowed to float beyond reach. A parachute attached to the set permits the radio operator to drop it from the plane from altitudes of 200-500 feet. The operator merely ties the loose end of the parachute static line to any solid part of the Liberator's structure and, after making sure the line is clear, tosses the set through any convenient opening.

After landing, he will find operating instructions in one of the bags containing the equipment, as well as on the transmitter itself. The set automatically transmits on MCW signal (modulated continuous wave), and is pre-tuned to the international distress frequency of 500 kilocycles. A searching party can "home" on the signal with the aid of a radio compass.

Have Radio Alternatives

In case of interphone failure within the plane, the radio frequency station of the command radio can be substituted for the regular interphone amplifier. The pilot simply places his command transmitter channel selector switch in either "No. 3" or "No. 4" position, then sets the interphone jack box selector switch on "COMMAND." To resume normal operation, the channel selector switch is placed back in the "No. 1" or "No. 2" position. The radio compass or liaison receivers can be substituted for the command set receiver.

When substituting one receiver for another, such as the compass receiver for the command receiver, the pilot moves the interphone selector switch to "COMMAND" or "LIAISON" in order to transmit, and switches back to the position of the receiver being used. Should the command set transmitter fail, the liaison transmitter may be substituted.

ORDER CORRECTS OPA ERROR IN RATION BOOK

Office of Price Administration gave grocers instructions Wednesday to accept only green stamps A, B and C in Book 4 and blue stamps X, Y and Z in Book 2 for processed foods. The OPA declared that because of an error in printing on point charts distributed to retail food stores some grocers are accepting blue stamps A, B, and C for processed foods, these stamps from Book 4.

Ration Book 4's blue coupons are to be used in February in exchange for plastic tokens and in no instance are to be used for processed foods.

To Fill Freezers

A wider variety of rationed meats will be available to the housewife during the low ebb of meat production next spring as a result of a rationing plan, announced by the Office of Price Administration, which encourages meat wholesalers to fill their storage freezers between now and mid-January, the peak period of meat output.

OPA stated that wholesalers who have the facilities to store meat will be loaned ration points with which to buy supplies during the fall period of high production. By increasing the ration purchasing power of wholesalers during these months, a greater variety of meat will be made available next spring than otherwise would be the case during the seasonal period of low production.

The meats for which point loans will be made are veal, lamb, mutton and the lower grades of beef (utility and canner and cutter grades), all of which are produced heavily during November and December.

Hospitals Get Points

Hospitals and other institutions that care for the sick will be allowed extra points for building up reserve inventories of rationed foods.

In some areas, local supply difficulties make it advisable for hospitals and similar institutions to buy in quantity in order to be sure at all times of adequate supplies of food. Where a hospital finds that it needs a reserve stock of rationed foods to meet possible emergency buying situations, OPA will grant the institution a point certificate to make the purchases. The certificate will be in amount to the institution's regular November-December allotment.

This reserve inventory will in no way increase the amount of foods the institution may use, OPA said. Hospitals will still use food according to their regular allotments.

Application for a certificate for extra points is to be made to the local ration board in writing, between November and December 15. The application must show why the institution needs reserve supplies of food. Only one reserve inventory will be allowed each institution.

Leather Goods Added

In a move designed to halt practices which, in some instances, resulted in unjustifiable increases in prices, OPA announced that by December 1st all stock of leather and non-leather luggage will be under price control and must be tagged showing selling price, including federal excise tax.

Luggage shipped by manufacturers after November 1 and by jobbers after November 15, 1943, should bear a tag showing its retail ceiling price. This tag must not be removed except after delivery to consumer, OPA officials said.

Dealers are advised that they must also tag stock on hand and they may find the ceiling price of such luggage by subtracting the excise tax from their cost, multiplying the actual cost by 1.82 then adding the excise tax to the resulting figure and adjusting to the nearest five cents.

The regulation does not apply to military kits designed for carrying toilet articles, nor does it apply to cases designed for the specific purpose of carrying cosmetics.

ARMY ACCEPTS TWO

James R. Glenn of Circleville has been accepted for training in the U. S. Marine Corps and Curtis L. Stoneburner of near Amana has been inducted into the Army by Columbus medical center officials. Both men were sent to Columbus this week with a Fairfield county rural board contingent. When Glenn was a resident here, he was registered for service when living in Fairfield county.

ENVELOPES NEEDED FOR SOLDIER GREETING CARDS

Families and friends of men overseas were reminded Wednesday by A. Hulse Hays, postmaster, that Christmas greeting cards sent to men in foreign stations must be mailed in sealed envelopes and prepaid at the first class rate.

This means that greeting cards mailed overseas to members of the armed forces will be accepted at the rate of three cents an ounce as ordinary and at six cents a half ounce as air mail.

The army postal service advises that cards so mailed if posted immediately will reach their destination before Christmas.

PITY the millionaires. Their income tax brackets are being broken over their heads. The extent of this deterioration is astonishing.

Taking for illustration the cases of two prominent capitalists, the late Edsel Ford and President Charles E. Wilson of General Motors, an expert for the joint congressional committee on internal revenue taxation figures out these facts.

The income figures for the year 1941, in round numbers, were $276,000 for Mr. Wilson and $284,000 for Mr. Ford. The taxes would be respectively $176,000 and $146,000. That would cut down the incomes available for spending to $99,000 and $88,000.

Tax assaults after Pearl Harbor knocked such net incomes galley west. Thus in 1942 Mr. Wilson would pay a tax of $216,000, leaving him a net $59,000, and Mr. Ford would pay $179,000 and have $54,000 left to spend. The continued deterioration of those two "spending incomes" in 1943 would leave Mr. Wilson $45,000 and Mr. Ford $41,000. When the estimates are projected in 1944, the expert's calculations indicate that, out of an estimated gross income of $276,000 Mr. Wilson would have left, "before taxes," $258,000 and "after taxes" $18,000, while Mr. Ford, after paying the government $215,000, would have left $19,000 for himself.

In view of these figures, the ordinary employee who works with his hands rather than his head might consider himself pretty well off.

● WASHINGTON—A new idea is an "incentive sales tax plan," explained by Curtis C. Snyder, representing Republic Steel. Briefly, the plan is to tax all retail articles at the time of sale. The purchaser is given a receipt in the form of a stamp for the amount of the tax paid. These stamps are accumulated in the same manner as War Saving Stamps until a value of $25 or $50 is attained. Then they become exchangeable for a low-interest rate, non-negotiable, non-transferable government bond; this bond to be redeemable not less than one year after the end of the war.
"The annual retail business in this country is 50 billion dollars," Snyder told the committeemen. "By placing a 20 per cent sales tax on all retail items, with a few exceptions like foods, fertilizers and feeds, approximately nine billion dollars could be raised."
Rep. Knutson (R) Minn., said he "rather liked" the plan—if it could be made workable. At the least, Rep. Knutson said, it might eliminate the setting up of another WPA after the war.

Instead, the Navy, which seems to cling much more to tradition than the Army, insists on keeping its mouth shut, while the Army, and especially the Army Air Corps, grabs the news spotlight and keeps hammering home the importance of what they are doing to win the war.
Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the fleet, has been blamed for the rigid censorship on Navy news. There is ample evidence, however, that much of the news is throttled by men on his staff.
Many a good story gathers dust in a Navy safe because some officer in high position believes that the enemy might learn something if it were published. Some stories are kept locked up even after the essential facts have been broadcast by the enemy radio.

SWANK DALLAS CLUB SHIES
WASHINGTON—Shortly before the vice president of the United States visited Dallas last month, his secretary, bulky, two-fisted Texan Harold Young, wrote to the swank Salesmanship club in Dallas suggesting they invite the vice president to lunch with them and deliver a talk on October 21.

Young, who lives in Dallas, knew Salesmanship club members as Jesse Jones sympathizers, but figured his chief, "the VP," should beard the lion in his den. Also he figured the invitation would cause Salesmanship clubsters to throw a fit.

Apparently it did. Soon Young received a letter from Club President Dick Brown which politely declined to listen to the vice president of the United States on October 21.

"Considerable opposition exists on some of the speaker's (Wallace's) recently expressed views," wrote Brown. "And though he might not express those views, the Salesmanship club would be identified with having sponsored his trip to Dallas."

"We would be most pleased," concluded Brown to his fellow Texan, "to have you address the club on some Thursday when your business or pleasure throws you to Dallas."

In reply, Vice Presidential Secretary Young wrote: "I am accepting your invitation tendered by the board of directors of the Salesmanship club and shall be in Dallas on both business and pleasure October 21, 1943. Will it be convenient for me to bring a guest?"

Again the high-hat members of the Salesmanship club writhed with worry. Flustered President Brown wrote back:

"Your appearance on October 21, in view of the discussion already raised and the divergence of opinion on Mr. Wallace's views, would surely create embarrassment and might endanger the unity that has always been so characteristic of the club. So let's have a cooling off period and hold the meeting at some time when it would not be identified with Mr. Wallace."

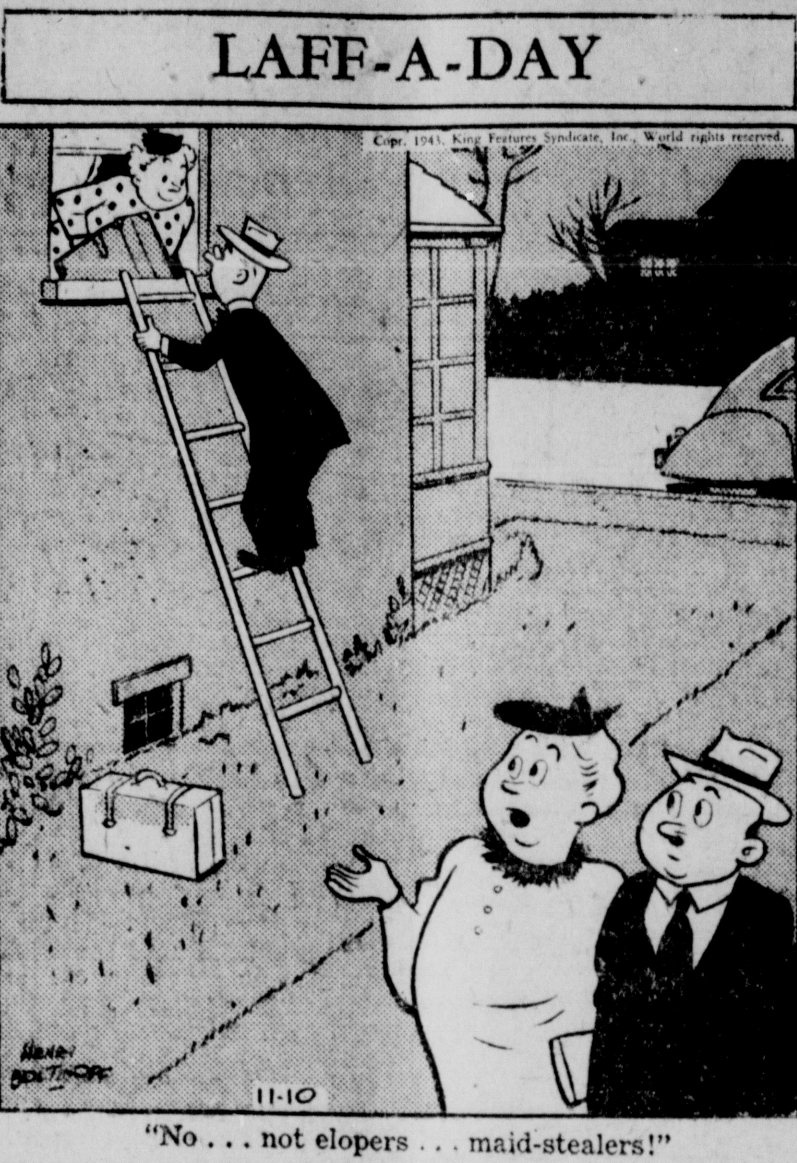

Finally Jokester Young relieved worried Clubster Brown by telling him he was only "having fun" with the "solemn directors." Intimating that Brown should go out to Caddo lake and get back his sense of humor, Young added: "You forgot that I am a pixie at heart."

NOTE: When Wallace went to Dallas, "Pixie" Young saw to it that his boss spoke to four large gatherings—workmen and ordinary folks—also shook hands with 1,700 people, which beat the hand-shaking records of Calvin Coolidge.

Germ Warfare Impractical Now

advanced the idea that as a last resort Hitler would release germ warfare.

Let me quiet any apprehensions that may exist about this on the authority of Colonel Leon A. Fox, of the Medical Corps of the United States Army.

There are three ways that germs can be spread so as to infect an opposing army. One is by infecting water supplies and food supplies. One is by dropping them from airplanes onto the ground. And one is by infecting animals, such as rats, and loosing them in enemy territory.

Not Practical
None, however, is practical. We have a sanitary corps and the water furnished troops is boiled or treated, the food is treated before it is used. Even if this didn't happen, the most likely germs that could be used to infect water supplies and food are typhoid fever and dysentery, and our troops are immunized against them. And if you members of the civilian population who are afraid of bacterial warfare have not also been immunized at least against typhoid, I advise you to go and do so at once.

Air-borne infection has several difficulties. First, and most important, is that the wind might shift and bring the germs that are intended for the enemy back on those who released them. Second, the most likely germs to use are first, influenza, and we are not sure we know what that germ is, and second, pneumonia, and the air is so full of pneumonia germs anyway that we couldn't put many more in. Besides we can cure pneumonia almost 100 per cent with the sulfa drugs.

Bubonic Plague
The idea of releasing an army of infected rodents is not so terribly impossible. The disease that would be most feasible to infect these with would be bubonic plague. But, again, it is a little difficult to predict which way the rats would run. The chances are that they would infect the rest of the rat population before they endangered the human population. And again, there is our sanitary corps who in the presence of such an event would get busy and eliminate the rat population.

On November 25, 1758, the site of Fort Duquesne was named "Pittsburgh" in honor of William Pitt.

Epidemics have done great damage and had great influence on wars before this. The only disease that has been used as a weapon is the termination of the Peloponnesian War to the plague of Athens.

Typoid fever nearly broke up our Spanish war. Dysentery nearly disrupted the Italian forces in the Civil War.

But all this was before the days of modern sanitation and the modern science of bacteriology. The possibilities that such a weapon could be brought into play now is so remote that we can with all cheerfulness dismiss it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
E. S.:—Is it possible to determine without the x-ray whether the thymus gland is enlarged in a very young baby?

Answer: In my experience the x-ray is the only reliable method of outlining the thymus gland.

M. H.:—Is it possible that there could be anything physically wrong with a person who is always sleeping?

Answer: Lack of thyroid secretion will do this. Also some other endocrine disturbances. Remember the fat boy in "Pickwick Papers."

E. H.:—Please tell about Vitamin D. Why is it needed? What happens if we don't get enough? What are its sources?

Answer: Babies and young children need more Vitamin D than adults. Lack of it results in faulty bone growth and rickets. It is present in many animal livers. Cod liver oil is a good source of it.

T. R.:—What is your opinion in regards to a person with asthma sleeping in a room opening on the outside provided they have plenty of warm blankets during autumn weather?

Answer: If the asthma is due to ragweed pollen of the autumn type it is better to keep the room closed. Otherwise fresh air is good for the asthmatic.

SYNOPSIS
Roommates and courtes.
BETH KINNAN, serious-minded and trusting, and ANDREA BARNES, rather self-centered and selfish, find that the tension accompanying America's impending entrance into the war is beginning to affect their lives. For three years Beth has been going with JIM RONALD, who still has not been too successful in getting ahead in the world, while Andrea has been attracted by DENNIS ARCHER, 15 years her senior, but wealthy and interesting—and also married.
YESTERDAY—Beth meets Dennis Archer accidentally while she is job-hunting. He tells her that he thinks a friend of his from Washington needs a secretary.

CHAPTER ELEVEN
ANDREA AND Dennis Archer had often dined at the exclusive Quinlan club, and Beth had heard much of it, but she never expected that she would be entering its portals at broad noon with Dennis—to get a job.
He left her in the ladies' lounge while he went in search of Henry Slade, and she took advantage of the moment to inspect herself, glad that she'd worn her new navy and white striped seersucker suit. Her white cotton gloves were spotless, her tan oxford shoes shined. She rubbed a little of her lipstick off and thrust the stained handkerchief into her bag as Dennis approached with a worried-looking man of about 50, who had shoulders stooped as if he carried the weight of the nation's burden upon them.

Dennis introduced them and she was aware of a pair of piercing eyes studying her while Dennis extolled her qualities (of which he could have known nothing) as "efficiency, loyalty, ambition." Then Dennis was gone, with a brief handshake for each of them. Something warm in the pressure of his hand gave her the first warm feeling she had had for him, but the awareness of it was quickly passing because Mr. Slade began to talk to her.

What happened in the next 11 minutes was conducted at a tempo that made her feel as if she were looking at a dizzy film run off at lightning speed to the accompaniment of machine gun fire. For, in that length of time she was given the slight information that Mr. Slade, president of the Arkansas Folding Box Manufacturing company, had been drafted by his government (a little, she gathered, to his consternation), was in immediate need of a secretary for his office in Washington in which he spent only a portion of his time, and expected her to report for duty not later than the following Monday.

He couldn't have disappeared in a puff of smoke, but so quickly did he disappear, after hastily writing a check and an address on the back of an envelope, that Beth found herself sitting down weakly on the edge of a gilt chair, unable to believe that no much had transpired in the short half hour since she'd met Archer.

She looked at the check first. ("First week's salary and enough to cover your fare to Washington") and found it was for $50. The addresses were those of his office on Pennsylvania avenue, at which she would appear in four days, and that of Mrs. James Golden, his former secretary, who would, he told her, "meet your train, if you wire her, and put you up until you find a place."

Four days seemed a very short time in which to prepare for the greatest change she had even made, but when Beth abandoned all efforts to eat lunch that wouldn't slide past the lump of excitement in her throat, the afternoon loomed long before her. At the end of the afternoon there would be Andrea to break the news to.

She went to the library and got a book about Washington to study its maps and pictures, feeling as if she were going to a foreign country, and then she did a little shopping, sternly resisting the temptation to buy all the things a girl wants to take upon a journey: a new suit and shoes, a twinkling heels, expensive gloves and a dazzling handbag. She bought two new slips and a cotton housecoat, a pair of cuffs and a modest supply of cold cream and tooth powder and the like, and a box of thin gray writing paper. And that made her think of Dennis Archer and writing a note to tell him how nice he had been to help her.

It wasn't that he was really helping her for her own sake, she thought. It was because of Andrea. He would want to do anything he could for anyone close to Andrea, as he would like to have done for Andrea herself. This was a new and surprising kind of thinking for Beth and, in some surprise, she found herself thinking, "He does love her. I remember how sick his eyes were that night at the house."

She knew she shouldn't have been sorry for him. He had known he was married and he had had no right to let himself fall in love with any girl as long as he had a wife. Therefore, it was his own fault. That was what she told herself. Love wasn't something that hit one suddenly. It was a slow, growing thing, after one came to know another—like, like the job she had come to love Jim.

But could she have ever stopped herself from loving Jim? Wasn't she trying now? Wasn't that the reason she was thrilled because she was going away from the place that was filled with memories of him?

That she was a girl of 27 about to embark on a brand new life, about to meet new people and enjoy new experiences, and that that in itself was a ready anticipation did not occur to her.

She went home and put her memories together. A handful of snapshots of Jim, of Jim and herself and Andrea. Two books he'd brought her. An enamel compact, his first Christmas gift, and a silk scarf. That was all she had of him. She put them into the pocket of her suitcase, wishing she could pack the whole thing and be off that day.

The prospect of breaking the news to Andrea was disturbing.

She made up a little speech, practiced it, and then forgot it when Andrea came in and saw the suitcase on the bed.

"Going places?" Andrea asked. "I've got a job." Beth gulped out. "Good! Where?"

"In . . . in Washington." Andrea sat down hard on the side of the bed. "In Washington!" she repeated blankly. "But you can't, Beth! What would I do? Where can I live? You can't leave me. You'll just have to get a job and stay here until . . . until Jim and I get married."

"Isn't that a little selfish of you, Andy?"

"Maybe," Andrea admitted, "but you've always spoiled me. You couldn't go away and leave me here alone, could you?"

"It isn't as if you were a baby—or would be left holding the bag, the apartment. Peg Woodruff would come in with you, Andy."

"I don't want Peg," Andrea cried petulantly. "I don't want anyone but you. What kind of an old job is it?"

"Secretary to a Mr. Henry Slade. He's a kind of a dollar-a-year man, I think."

"How'd you get it?"

Beth knew that she had a guilty look she shouldn't have had when she mumbled, "Mr. Archer got it for me."

Quick color flamed up in Andrea's cheeks angrily. "What's come over you, Beth Kinnan, that you'd do a thing like that? You went over my head and went to Dennis and . . ."

Calmly, Beth began to speak, but she was burning at the injustice of Andrea's accusation. She told Andrea about her meeting with Dennis at the bank, and what had followed.

Andrea listened until she finished, and then she said, "Why didn't Dennis tell me about it? Why didn't he think of me, that I might want to get out of this town?"

Beth's expression reflected her inability to believe what she was hearing.

"Andrea, you said I was selfish, but don't you see? If I'd got the job, you'd have gone and left me, wouldn't you?"

Andrea had the grace to drop her eyes. Then she said, the words spitting out. "Yes! I'd have gone. You go, Beth. Get everything out of it you can. Take and take everything you think is yours! That's what I'd do—and I guess that's what I want you to do. Sometimes you make me feel mean and piggy and . . . just what I am, but can't change. Maybe if you can, things will be more equal between us. Down underneath I'm glad to see you go and get a chance at something worth having."

I do love you, Beth. Remember that—if you ever have to, and you may. I'm not all bad. Lots of me is, but maybe if the time ever comes, that little bit of good will save the situation."

Beth said, "You're talking nonsense," but Andrea was not. (To Be Continued)

Apparently it did. Soon Young received a letter from Club President Dick Brown which politely declined to listen to the vice president of the United States on October 21.

"Considerable opposition exists on some of the speaker's (Wallace's) recently expressed views," wrote Brown. "And though he might not express those views, the Salesmanship club would be identified with having sponsored his trip to Dallas."

"We would be most pleased," concluded Brown to his fellow Texan, "to have you address the club on some Thursday when your business or pleasure throws you to Dallas."

In reply, Vice Presidential Secretary Young wrote: "I am accepting your invitation tendered by the board of directors of the Salesmanship club and shall be in Dallas on both business and pleasure October 21, 1943. Will it be convenient for me to bring a guest?"

Again the high-hat members of the Salesmanship club writhed with worry. Flustered President Brown wrote back:

"Your appearance on October 21, in view of the discussion already raised and the divergence of opinion on Mr. Wallace's views, would surely create embarrassment and might endanger the unity that has always been so characteristic of the club. . . . So let's have a cooling off period and hold the meeting at some time when it would not be identified with Mr. Wallace."

Finally Jokester Young relieved worried Clubster Brown by telling him he was only "having fun" with the "solemn directors." Intimating that Brown should go out to Caddo lake and get back his sense of humor, Young added: "You forgot that I am a pixie at heart."

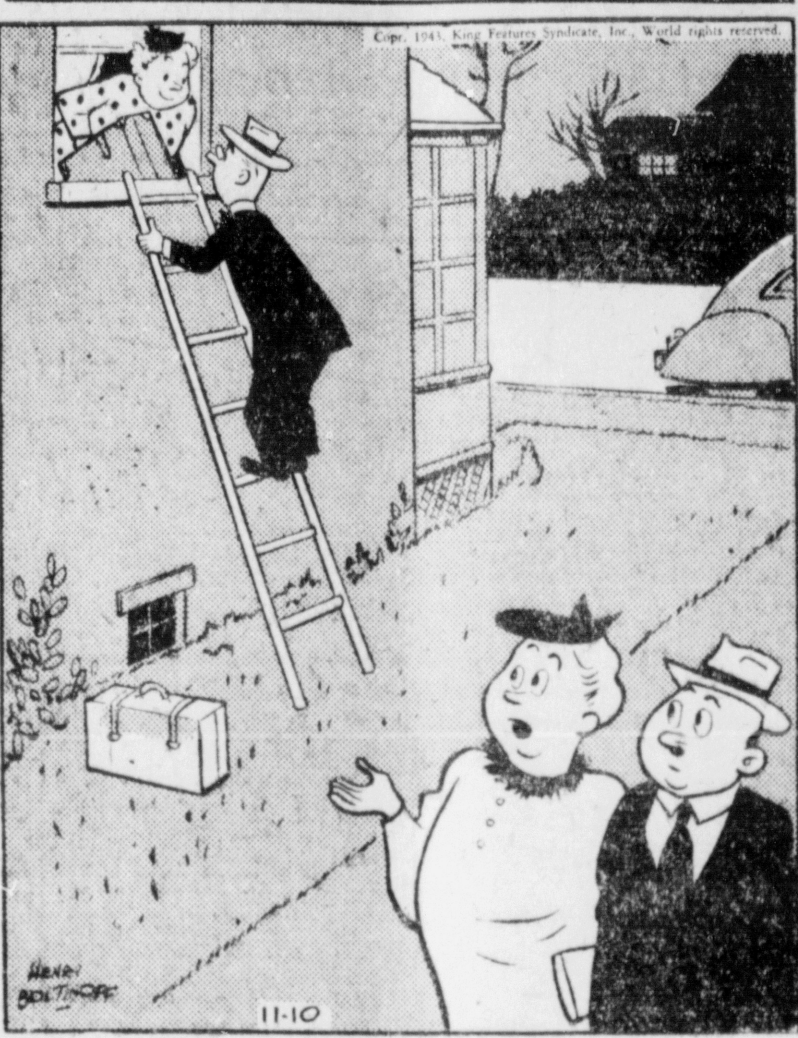

NOTE: When Wallace went to Dallas, "Pixie" Young saw to it that his boss spoke to four large gatherings—workmen and ordinary folks—also shook hands with 1,700 people, which beat the hand-shaking records of Calvin Coolidge.

NEW LEAGUE OF NATIONS?

Diplomats are watching the Atlantic City food and rehabilitation conference opening today more carefully than any other international event in this country. They figure that the pattern it adopts will set the stage for whatever type of world peace organization the U. S. A. may join after the war.

Also they are worried. For the preliminary moves look to small nation diplomats as if the worst features of the League of (Continued on Page Eight)

Germ Warfare Impractical Now

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
A CHRONIC pessimist was expressing himself the other day about the future of civilization and the war in particular, and he advanced the idea that as a last resort Hitler would release germ warfare.

Let me quiet any apprehensions that may exist about this on the authority of Colonel Leon A. Fox, of the Medical Corps of the United States Army.

There are three ways that germs can be spread to us to infect an opposing army. One is by infecting water supplies and food supplies. One is by dropping them from airplanes onto the ground. And one is by infecting animals, such as rats, and loosing them in enemy territory.

Not Practical
None, however, is practical. We have a sanitary corps and the water furnished troops is boiled or treated, the food is treated before it is used. Even if this didn't happen, the most likely germs that could be used to infect water supplies and food are typhoid fever and dysentery, and our troops are immunized against them. And if you members of the civilian population who are afraid of bacterial warfare have not also been immunized at least against typhoid, I advise you to go and do so at once.

Air-spread infection has several difficulties. First, and most important, is that the wind might shift and bring the germs that are intended for the enemy back on those who released them. Second, the most likely germs to use are first, influenza, and we are not sure we know what that germ is, and second, pneumonia, and the air is so full of pneumonia germs anyway that we couldn't put many more in. Besides we can cure pneumonia almost 100 per cent with the sulfa drugs.

Bubonic Plague
The idea of releasing an army of infected rodents is not so terribly impossible. The disease that would be most feasible to infect these with would be bubonic plague. But, again, it is a little difficult to predict which way the

SYNOPSIS
Beth Kinnaird and Dennis Archer. Beth Kinnaird, serious-minded and trusting, and Dennis Archer, a self-centered and selfish, find that the tension accompanying Archer's impending entrance into the war is beginning to affect their lives. For three years Beth has been going with Jim Ronald, who still has not been too successful in getting ahead in the world, while Dennis Archer has been attracted by the news to a place.

Four days seemed a very short time in which to prepare for the greatest change she had even made, but when Beth abandoned all efforts to eat lunch that wouldn't slide past this lump of excitement in her throat, the afternoon loomed long before her. At the end of the afternoon there would be Dennis to break the news to.

She went to the library and got a book about Washington to study its maps and pictures, feeling as if she were going to a foreign country, and then she did a little shopping, sternly resisting the temptation to buy all the things a girl wants to take upon a journey: a new suit and a new pair of twinkling heels, expensive gloves and a dazling handbag. She bought two new slips and a cotton housecoat, a pair of cuffs and a modest supply of cold cream and tooth powder and the like, and a box of thin gray writing paper. And that made her think of Dennis Archer and writing a note to tell him how nice he had been to help her.

It wasn't that he was really helping her for her own sake, she thought. It was because of Dennis. He would want to do anything he could for anyone close to Dennis, as he would like to have done for Dennis herself. This was a new and surprising kind of thinking for Beth and, in some surprise, she found herself thinking, "He does love her. I remember how sick his eyes were that night at the house."

She knew she shouldn't have been sorry for him. He had known he was married and he had had no right to let himself fall in love with any girl as long as he had a wife. Therefore, it was his own fault. That was what she told herself. Love wasn't something that hit one suddenly. It was a slow, growing thing, after one came to know another—like, like the way she had come to love Jim.

But could she have ever stopped herself from loving Jim? Wasn't she trying now? Wasn't that the reason she was thrilled because she was going away from the place that was filled with memories of him?

That she was a girl of 27 about to embark on a brand new life, about to meet new people and enjoy new experiences, and that that in itself was a heavy anticipation did not occur to her.

She went home and put her memories together. A handful of snapshots of Jim, of Jim and herself and Dennis. Two books he'd brought her. An enamel compact, his first Christmas gift, and a silk scarf. That was all she had of him. She put them into the pocket of her suitcase, wishing she could pack the whole thing and be off that day.

She looked at the check first. ("First week's salary and enough to cover your fare to Washington") and found it was for $50. The addresses were those of his office on Pennsylvania avenue, at which she would appear in four days, and that of Mrs. James Golden, his former secretary, who would, he told her, "meet your train, if you wire her, and put you up until you find a place."

Mrs. George Valentine To Head Eastern Star

Officers for 1944
Selected By
City Unit

Circleville Chapter No. 90 of the Order of the Eastern Star chose its corps of officers for 1944 at its annual business session Tuesday in the chapter room, Masonic temple. Mrs. George Valentine will serve as worthy matron for the coming year with Carl D. Bennett as worthy patron.

Mrs. Cecil Noecker, worthy matron, was in the chair for the evening and received Miss Marie L. Hamilton, past grand matron, who was escorted to the East. During the regular business period, reports of committees were presented. Thirty-two responded to roll call.

An impressive memorial service was held for deceased members, Mrs. Edwin L. Price and Mrs. Irvin W. Kinney.

Other officers elected during the meeting were Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, associate matron; Lawrence Johnson, associate patron; Mrs. George E. Gerhardt, secretary; Mrs. W. B. Cady, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Bowling, conductress; Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer, associate conductress, and Mrs. Noecker, trustee.

Circleville Benevolent Association Circleville Benevolent association met Tuesday in the city cottage for the monthly session. Miss Florence Dunton, president, was in the chair and received the October report of Miss Clara Southward, case worker.

Miss Southward announced that there had been no very extreme needs for the month, about the usual number of calls for clothing and bedding. Supplies of used clothing came in from 15 persons, helping to give assistance to 44 families. Summer clothing included in the donations was stored for future use. Winter clothing taken from storage is being put to use by various families.

She reported that several sun suits have been transformed into bloomers for little girls and some of the slacks changed into slits. Several mothers on the association list she reported as experts at remodeling.

Supplies given out in October included 22 pairs of shoes, 199 garments and 62 miscellaneous articles which included a mattress, three blankets, curtains and dishes. Among the garments were two overcoats and two suits for men, 10 coats for women, three jackets, dresses, underwear and also two costumes for the Halloween parade. Three families are on the daily milk list.

Twenty-seven visits were made in the homes of applicants and two visits in their behalf. Miss Southward reported 86 office interviews with applicants and 8 interviews with consultative.

Wedding Plans Miss Gretchen Anne Hedges, 649 East Town street, Columbus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hedges of Ashville, has revealed plans for her marriage Sunday, November 14, to Dr. Robert Sprague Strigley, son of Mrs. Jennie Strigley of Athens.

The open-church ceremony will be performed at the Ashville Methodist church at 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. Felix Konkle of Pittsburgh as matron of honor and Miss Sally Strigley, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl. Dr. Weber Johnson of Ironton will be best man for Dr. Strigley and his ushers will be Lt. Frank Marino of Patterson Field, Dayton, and Dr. Victor Kissler of Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Konkle will honor Miss Hedges at a crystal shower to-night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cooper, 1318 Madison avenue, Columbus. Miss Helen Richards, Miss Lester Douglas and Miss Christine Douglas were co-hostesses at a kitchen shower at their home in Columbus October 23. Mrs. Margaret Styers, Miss Priscilla Hedges and Miss Lucille Hedges entertained at a linen shower for the bride-elect November 6 at their home near Ashville.

Junior Class Play "The Last of the Ruthvens", a mystery play in three acts by Lindsey Darbee, will be presented next Wednesday at 8 p. m. by the Junior class of Pickaway township high school in the school auditorium. Mrs. Morris Cooper of the high school teaching staff is coaching the production.

Class members in the cast are Annabelle Sams, Joan Mowery, Winifred Shepherd, Phoebe Timmons, Carl Fouch, Darl McAfee, Roy Jenkins, Robert Browder, Marjorie Dreisbach and Lucy Minor.

Loyal Daughters' Class Loyal Daughters class of the United Brethren church met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Earl Radcliff, 130 West Water street, for the regular business and social session.

The program in charge of Mrs. Catherine Pearce consisted of group singing; prayers by Mrs.

Gleaming Satin Accent

IF YOU have a silhouette worth moulding, this is the season to have it moulded beautifully by our best dressmakers. The subtle combination of dull and shiny blacks is having a fine comeback through our new and slimmer dress patterns dictated by yardage allowances, so your favorite black hits a fresh high of popularity with its wartime version.

In the frock sketched alongside, a polished satin midriff section sets off a slim waist, and deep satin cuffs accent a slim wrist. The rest of the frock, with its bolero effect and interesting V-shaped double-breasted cut, is dull black crepe. Self buttons border the V, and the satin waistline is stuck with chunky false cabochon-cut jewels.

C. R. Barnhart, Montclair avenue. Mrs. W. T. Elm and Mrs. Ralph Crist will be assisting hostesses at this session and members are asked to take small gifts for exchange.

Mrs. Pontius presented an interesting report of the district meeting which she had attended at Chillicothe. Miss Reba Lee as program chairman presented papers by Miss Hoffman, Mrs. Lytle and herself on the war situation and the possibilities of an enduring peace.

Refreshments were served and Barbara Pontius entertained the group with a piano solo, "The Marine Hymn."

Luther League
Luther League of Christ Lutheran church met Tuesday at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. George L. Troutman, East Mound street, with about 30 members and guests present for the affair. Mrs. Harry Kern, president, was in charge of the business and devotional hour.

A short program included readings by Mrs. Lawrence Krimmel, Miss Helen M. Kern, Lyle Davis and Mrs. Noah List; piano solos, Ruth Troutman and George Troutman; song, Joy Troutman, and recitation, Johnny Troutman.

Harry Kern presented the discussion topic, "The Christian's Day."

Lunch was served at tables in the dining room and contests and games were enjoyed during the social hour.

Merry-Makers' Circle
Merry-Makers' circle of the Order of the Eastern Star will meet Thursday in the Red room, Masonic temple, with the annual election of officers planned for the meeting. During the hour of sewing, members will finish comforts for convalescent soldiers, a Red Cross project.

Youth Fellowship
Youth Fellowship of the Williamsport Methodist church met Tuesday in the parish house with the Rev. R. S. Meyer as leader. Mrs. Gladys Ariedge assisted. Rose Evelyn Wardell was chosen

Mrs. George Valentine To Head Eastern Star

Officers for 1944
Selected By
City Unit

Circleville Chapter No. 90 of the Order of the Eastern Star chose its corps of officers for 1944 at its annual business session Tuesday in the chapter room, Masonic temple. Mrs. George Valentine will serve as worthy matron for the coming year with Carl D. Bennett as worthy patron.

Mrs. Cecil Noecker, worthy matron, was in the chair for the evening and received Miss Marie L. Hamilton, past grand matron, who was escorted to the East. During the regular business period, reports of committees were presented. Thirty-two responded to roll call.

An impressive memorial service was held for deceased members, Mrs. Edwin L. Price and Mrs. Irvin W. Kinsey.

Other officers elected during the meeting were Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, associate matron; Lawrence Johnson, associate patron; Mrs. George E. Gerhardt, secretary; Mrs. W. E. Cady, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Bowling, conductress; Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer, associate conductress, and Mrs. Noecker, trustee.

Circleville Benevolent Association. Circleville Benevolent association met Tuesday in the city cottage for the monthly session. Miss Florence Dunton, president, was in the chair and received the October report of Miss Clara Southward, case worker.

Miss Southward announced that there had been no very extreme needs for the month, about the usual number of calls for clothing and bedding. Supplies of used clothing came in from 15 persons, helping to give assistance to 44 families. Summer clothing included in the donations was stored for future use. Winter clothing taken from storage is being put to use by various families.

She reported that several sunsuits have been transformed into bloomers for little girls and some of the slacks changed into slits. Several mothers on the association list she reported as experts at remodeling.

Supplies given out in October included 22 pairs of shoes, 199 garments and 62 miscellaneous articles which included a mattress, three blankets, curtains and dishes. Among the garments were two overcoats and two suits for men, 10 coats for women, three jackets, dresses, underwear and also two costumes for the Halloween parade. Three families are on the daily milk list.

Twenty-seven visits were made in the homes of applicants and two visits in their behalf. Miss Southward reported 86 office interviews with applicants and 8 interviews with consultants.

Wedding Plans. Miss Gretchen Annie Hedges, 649 East Town street, Columbus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hedges of Ashville, has revealed plans for her marriage Sunday, November 14, to Dr. Robert Sprague Srigley, son of Mrs. Jennie Srigley of Athens.

The open-church ceremony will be performed at the Ashville Methodist church at 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. Felix Konkile of Pittsburgh as matron of honor and Miss Sally Srigley, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl. Dr. Weber Johnson of Ironton will be best man for Dr. Srigley and his ushers will be Lt. Frank Marino, Patterson Field, Dayton, and Dr. Victor Kessler of Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Konkile will honor Miss Hedges at a crystal shower to-night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cooper, 1318 Madison avenue, Columbus. Miss Helen Richards, Miss Lester Douglas and Miss Christine Douglas were co-hostesses at a kitchen shower at their home in Columbus October 23. Mrs. Margaret Styers, Miss Priscilla Hedges and Miss Lucille Hedges entertained at a linen shower for the bride-elect November 6 at their home near Ashville.

Junior Class Play. "The Last of the Ruthvens", a mystery play in three acts by Lindsey Darbee, will be presented next Wednesday at 8 p. m. by the junior class of Pickaway township high school in the school auditorium. Mrs. Morris Cooper of the high school teaching staff is coaching the production.

Class members in the cast are Minabelle Sams, Joan Mowery, Winifred Shepherd, Phoebe Timmons, Carl Fouch, Darl McAfee, Roy Jenkins, Robert Browder, Marjorie Dreishach and Lucy Minor.

Loyal Daughters' Class. Loyal Daughters' class of the United Brethren church met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Earl Radcliff, 130 West Water street, for a regular business and social session.

The program in charge of Mrs. Catherine Pearce consisted of group singing; prayers by Mrs.

Gleaming Satin Accent

IF YOU have a silhouette worth moulding, this is the season to have it moulded beautifully by our best dressmakers. The subtle combination of dull and shiny blacks is having a fine comeback through our new and slimmer dress patterns dictated by yardage allowances, so your favorite black hits a fresh high of popularity with its wartime version.

In the frock sketched alongside, a polished satin midriff section sets off a slim waist, and deep satin cuffs accent a slim wrist. The rest of the frock, with its bolero effect and interesting V-shaped double-breasted cut, is dull black crepe. Self buttons border the V, and the satin waistline is stuck with chunky false cabochon-cut jewels.

C. R. Barnhart, Montclair avenue. Mrs. W. T. Uim and Mrs. Ralph Crist will be assisting hostesses at this session and members are asked to take small gifts for exchange.

Mrs. Pontius presented an interesting report of the district meeting which she had attended at Chillicothe. Miss Reba Lee as program chairman presented papers by Miss Hoffman, Mrs. Lytle and herself on the war situation and the possibilities of an enduring peace.

Refreshments were served and Barbara Pontius entertained the group with a piano solo, "The Marine Hymn."

Luther League

Luther League of Christ Lutheran church met Tuesday at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. George L. Troutman, East Mound street, with about 30 members and guests present for the affair. Mrs. Harry Kern, president, was in charge of the business and devotional hour.

A short program included readings by Mrs. Lawrence Krimmel, Miss Helen M. Kern, Lyle Davis and Mrs. Noah List; piano solos, Ruth Troutman and George Troutman; song, Joy Troutman, and recitation, Johnny Troutman.

Harry Kern, presented the discussion topic, "The Christian's Day."

Lunch was served at tables in the dining room and contests and games were enjoyed during the social hour.

Merry-Makers' Circle

HAS THE CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR THE HOME!

WOULDN'T it be tough if your family's food had to be bought at auction, where goods go to the highest bidder?

That's just what rationing and top legal prices for food aim to prevent. They give everyone an equal portion, at a fixed price. And this is vitally necessary, since the American food supply—despite greatly increased production—cannot meet all the wartime demands at home and abroad.

You can help greatly in this food shortage—help your country, and help yourself—by treating food as the vital war material it is. Here are four things you can do:

1. PRODUCE FOOD, where and when you can. Farmers are urged to meet farm goals. City families are urged to plan a bigger Victory Garden, to help out on a farm or in a food processing plant if possible.

2. CONSERVE FOOD. Can and preserve food. Cut waste. Stretch your food supply by substituting plentiful for scarce foods. Balance your meals for good nutrition.

3. SHARE FOOD. Put the war's food demands first. Share the supplies willingly with your armed forces, your Allies, your neighbors.

4. PLAY SQUARE WITH FOOD. Accept no rationed foods without giving up ration stamps. Pay no more than top legal prices under any circumstances.

Football Heroes Kinnick, Scott Victims of War; Now It's Tommy Harmon Who Is Missing in Action

Tommy Harmon

Harmon, No. 98, in action

Nile Kinnick

Don Scott

By Walter L. Johns
Central Press Sports Editor
ALL-AMERICANS!

They were just that. The year is 1939. It is the football season.

Three men stand out among college football players. They are Nile Kinnick, Tommy Harmon and Don Scott.

Kinnick, star of the University of Iowa football team, is being hailed up and down the land for his feats on the gridiron. The passing star of the Hawkeye varsity, a 60-minute player, is the key man on the squad. He makes the All-American—all the All-Americans. He is acclaimed as the "player of the year."

Then there is Tommy Harmon, the publicized Gary, Ind., youth who was to become the new Grange of the grid. Harmon is running wild for Michigan, scoring the Wolverine points game after game. Even in defeat, Harmon stands out. He makes the All-American team.

Scott Stars

At Ohio State, the Buckeyes are proud of their Don Scott. A fine back, brilliant passer and punter, Scott is the leading light of the Scarlet and Gray. Scott makes several of the All-American teams.

Then comes 1940. Kinnick has graduated, but not Harmon and Scott.

Harmon, All-American, records new gridiron history. When time comes for the selectors to pick their all-star squads, Harmon is the No. 1 man.

Scott, All-American, likewise adds to his laurels. He pilots the

Ohio State team to a fine season and, like Harmon, makes the All-American squad again.

It is the year 1943. It is June 2. Kinnick, now Ensign Kinnick, a Navy flyer, is operating from an aircraft carrier in the battle against the Japs.

Scott Killed
All-American Kinnick is doing an All-American job. Engine trouble develops. Kinnick's plane makes a crash landing at sea. No trace of Kinnick or the plane is found.

It is early October. Scott, now Captain Scott, Army Air Forces flyer, is on a routine flight over England.

All-American Scott is doing an All-American job.

His plane crashes. Scott is killed.

And now, tragically, it is Harmon's turn.

It is late October. Harmon, now Lieut. Tommy Harmon, fighter pilot, is flying with the 44th Fighter Squadron in China.

All-American Harmon is doing an All-American job.

Telegram Tells Story

A telegram from the War Department tells the story. Addressed to his parents at Ann Arbor, Mich., it reads:

"The secretary of war desires to express his regrets by saying Second Lieut. Thomas D. Harmon has been reported missing in action over China since October 30."

Harmon, who had survived a crash in Dutch Guiana in April, may be found. If he isn't, though, we might add a few words to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's famous utterance to make it read:

"On the fields of friendly strife are sown the seeds which, in other years on other fields will bear the fruits of victory... and honorable death."

About This And That In Many Sports

Coach Roy Black's three cripples, Jim Dade, Jim Wells and Freck Heath, are taking it easy in practices this week, but the coach indicated today that all will be ready for service against Washington C. H. Friday night in the season's finale. Dade and Wells were hurt last week, while Heath has been fighting a knee injury since the Wilmington game. He has refused to give up, but the coach is letting him out of heavy drills this week so the knee may gain some strength.

Dads are being given a special invitation by school authorities to participate in Friday night's Homecoming. Fathers of all boys on the squad are asked to appear at the school between 7 and 7:30 p. m. All should report at the front door of the building from which point they will be taken to the dressing room. Each dad will wear his boy's number on the back of his coat. A special bench will be placed inside the fence for the dads.

Officials for Friday night will be Chuck Koterba, Harley Pearce and Olen Grandle. Koterba has not been here this year, Pearce worked one game, and Grandle officiated the Greenfield tilt and was also an arbiter at Wilmington.

Army Air Corps May Be Beneficiary From Pro League Playoff Joust

By Davis J. Walsh

CHICAGO, Nov. 10—With the Army Air Corps quite likely to be named as beneficiary, the annual pro-league play-off game... doubtless between the Chicago Bears and last year's champion Washington Redskins... will be held December 26 either at the Los Angeles coliseum or Wrigley field, Chicago, it can be definitely stated today.

The date is a little against Wrigley field.

So, we suspect, is the Army Air Corps, which has contacted the National Football league and, in general, is showing a lively interest in the promotion. Its interest in the 105,000-capacity coliseum would be exactly that much livelier than in the 38,000-park here.

Besides, it could be (if you wanted to argue that way) that the reason we won't have snow to the arm pits here on December 26 is that it only reaches the knees. But even a league might want to argue that way if it also wanted to crash the sacrosanct coliseum for the first time with an all-pro game.

Paraphrasing, there was a story printed here yesterday which said, in effect, that the annual pro-bowl game (between the champions and the league all stars) was to be called off this year in order to allow the players to return at the season's close to the shipyards and munitions plants. But that isn't entirely correct. It would be more accurate to state that the pro-bowl game will not be played... if the league can avoid playing it.

It would have gone for the Sugar Bowl site in New Orleans, because this also would furnish prestige and "character." But, when it developed that the field... by written agreement... could only be used for college games, the league lost much of the enthusiasms, if any, it had for the pro-bowl promotion.

For some reason, in fact, it claims not to regard this game as being good "theatre" and, as for it being good business, all possibility of this is effectually eliminated by its charity angle. Practically all the net profits, it seems, of the three Los Angeles games went to charity, the players drew a token award of $150 plus upkeep and transportation... and George Halas is said to have personally "gone for" $3,000 on the last trip out there.

No, the pro-bowl (under its several auspices, to date) has not been exactly an ideal arrangement, from the point of view of its principals. But if a war charity, as was the case last year, wants this game played, you can make book on it that it'll be played somewhere... anywhere.

GRAHAM'S JOB AGAINST IRISH IS MAJOR ONE

Speedy Otto Must Carry Heavy Load With Other Stars Missing

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 10—Otto Graham assumed his most exacting assignment for Northwestern today—to lead a sharply reduced band of Wildcat backs against a powerful and veteran Notre Dame line next Saturday.

Gone from the Purple backfield are Fullbacks Don Buffmire and Vic Schwall and Right Halfbacks Herman Frickey and Dud Kean. Graham will be expected to lead the attack with the help of two reserves, Nick Vodick, converted right halfback reserve, at fullback, and Joe Scriba, speedy but small operative at right halfback.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Julie Rykovich, ailing No. 1 right halfback, was back in his old post today as the Notre Dame Irish got down to the serious business of drilling for their invasion of the Northwestern Wildcats' haunts.

Bob Kelly, freshman who carried most of the right halfback assignment in the Army game, was shifted back to the reserves to back up Rykovich.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—A deficiency in his mathematics marks will keep Glenn Davis, Army's star fullback, out of Saturday's game with Sampson naval training station. West Point officials disclosed today. If Davis' classroom work improves sufficiently in the interim, however, he may become eligible to play in the annual Army-Navy classic November 27. His absence from the lineup Saturday will greatly handicap the Cadets, badly battered after their recent heavy defeat by Notre Dame.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Rudy Smeja, Michigan veteran, was named today to lead the Wolverines against the invading Wisconsin Badgers Saturday. Coach Fritz Crisler attempted to correct flaws in the Michigan attack that netted only three touchdowns against Indiana last week. Halfback Elroy Hirsch has been kept out of recent drills because of a serious shoulder injury. X-rays showed no bones broken, however.

COLUMBUS—The Ohio State Buckeyes polished up their offense today after considerable classroom instruction earlier in the week. The battle with Illinois at Columbus Saturday will be the 32nd meeting between the two schools. The Buckeyes have won 17 games of the series to 12 for Illinois.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—The Illinois line was strengthened today with the return of Pete Kearney, freshman left guard who missed the Iowa game because of an injury.

MINNEAPOLIS.—Forced indoors by the weather, the Minneapolis Gophers took to the field-house again today in their drill for the Iowa game at Minneapolis Saturday.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—Coach Hip Madigan speeded up practice for the Iowa Hawkeyes today because of the recent curtailed workouts. Fullback Bill Gallagher, the Hawkeyes' leading ground gainer, has received a two-day stay of induction order and will be available for the Minnesota game Saturday.

CANADEO GRABS GAINING LEAD OVER BEAR ACE

CHICAGO, Nov. 10 — Tony Canadeo of the Green Bay Packers continued today to lead the professional football pack in the fight for ground gaining honors, although his margin was narrowed over the week end by Harry Clark, Chicago Bear halfback.

National Football league statistics showed that Clark still holds first place among kickoff hanelers, while pressing Canadeo in the ground-gaining department.

Against the Packers, Clark gathered 57 yards in 17 attempts on a slippery field, while Canadeo was held to 47 yards in nine attempts, one a 20-yard run for the Packers' only touchdown.

A narrow margin of only two yards now separates the pair, Canadeo having 386 yards to his credit to 384 for Clark. Rookie John Grigas of the Chicago Cardinals, Johnny Butler of the Philadelphia Eagles and flashy Frank Sinkwich, Detroit's prized rookie, follow in the ground gaining race in that order.

Sammy Baugh of Washington displaced Don Hutson of the Packers in pass interceptions, stealing two Phil-Pitt passes last week end, but Hutson, though limited to a single point by the Bears, remained well in front among scorers, with a total of 55 points, and in pass receiving, with 27 completions for a total of 397 yards gained which netted five touchdowns.

Football Heroes Kinnick, Scott Victims of War; Now It's Tommy Harmon Who Is Missing in Action

Tommy Harmon

Harmon, No. 98, in action

Nile Kinnick

Don Scott

By Walter L. Johns
Central Press Sports Editor
ALL-AMERICANS!
They were just that.

The year is 1939. It is the football season.

Three men stand out among college football players. They are Nile Kinnick, Tommy Harmon and Don Scott.

Kinnick, star of the University of Iowa football team, is being hailed up and down the land for his feats on the gridiron. The passing star of the Hawkeye varsity, a 60-minute player, is the key man on the squad. He makes the All-American—all the All-Americans. He is acclaimed as the "player of the year."

Then there is Tommy Harmon, the publicized Gary, Ind., youth who was to become the new Grange of the grid. Harmon is running wild for Michigan, scoring the Wolverine points game after game. Even in defeat, Harmon stands out. He makes the All-American team.

Scott Stars
At Ohio State, the Buckeyes are proud of their Don Scott. A fine back, brilliant passer and punter, Scott is the leading light of the Scarlet and Gray. Scott makes several of the All-American teams.

Then comes 1940. Kinnick has graduated, but not Harmon and Scott.

Harmon, All-American, records new gridiron history. When time comes for the selectors to pick their all-star squads, Harmon is the No. 1 man.

Scott, All-American, likewise adds to his laurels. He pilots the

Ohio State team to a fine season and, like Harmon, makes the All-American squad again.

It is the year 1943. It is June 2. Kinnick, now Ensign Kinnick, a Navy flyer, is operating from an aircraft carrier in the battle against the Japs.

Scott Killed
All-American Kinnick is doing an All-American job. Engine trouble develops. Kin-nicks' plane makes a crash landing at sea. No trace of Kinnick or the plane is found.

It is early October.
Scott, now Captain Scott, Army Air Forces flyer, is on a routine flight over England.

All-American Scott is doing an All-American job.
His plane crashes. Scott is killed.

And now, tragically, it is Harmon's turn.

It is late October.
Harmon, now Lieut. Tommy Harmon, fighter pilot, is flying with the 44th Fighter Squadron in China.

All-American Harmon is doing an All-American job.

Telegram Tells Story
A telegram from the War Department tells the story. Addressed to his parents at Ann Arbor, Mich., it reads:

"The secretary of war desires to express his regrets by saying Second Lieut. Thomas D. Harmon has been reported missing in action over China since October 30."

Harmon, who had survived a crash in Dutch Guiana in April, may be found. If he isn't, though, we might add a few words to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's famous utterance to make it read:

"On the fields of friendly strife are sown the seeds which, in other years on other fields will bear the fruits of victory... and honorable death."

About This And That In Many Sports

Coach Roy Black's three cripples, Jim Dade, Jim Wells and Freck Heath, are taking it easy in practices this week, but the coach indicated today that all will be ready for service against Washington C. ACTORS AND WALLER Screen Stars Susanna Foster, Sonny Tufts, Bert Lahr, and Pianist-Composer Thomas "Fats" Waller, are the headliners in the entertainment world signed for the "What's New?" show Saturday at 6 p. m. over the Blue network. From New York, Jim Ameche will interview Sister Elizabeth Kenny, Australian nurse famed for her concept of treating infantile paralysis.

"HELLO FRISCO HELLO"

Blonde and beautiful Alice Faye will recreate her popular film, "Hello Frisco, Hello" when Producer Cecil B. DeMille presents the drama on Radio Theatre Monday at 8 p. m. over the Columbia network. Taken from the colorful era of the gay 90's, Alice Faye will portray the young girl singer, Trudy Evans, who rises from an entertainer at "Sharkey's Saloon" to a celebrated star both in this country and abroad. At "Sharkey's" she teams up with a singing partner, one of whom is Johnny Cornell. Trudy falls in love with Johnny but the talented entertainer's head is turned by a beautiful heiress whom he marries.

MISCHA TURNS BOSWELL

Mischa Auer, whose customary Thursday night radio antics include "The Memoirs of Mischa of the Magnificent," turns his biographical eye on Groucho Marx. When he Boswells "Marx the Magnificent," on Groucho's "Blue Ribbon Town" on Saturday at 7 p. m., over station WBNS. Carefully weighing all the facts on a portable scale he'll bring along for the purpose, Mischa offers a revealing insight into the character that is Marx. Fay McKenzie and Bill Days sing, Robert Armstrong conducts the orchestra.

COUNT BASIE

When "The Million Dollar Band" takes the air Saturday over NBC at 9 p. m. the piano will not be relegated merely to the role of "timekeeper," for Barry Wood's guest will be Count Basie, famous jump king of swing, who has earned fame as a musicians' pianist.

Basie is an odds on choice with musicians and critics as well as being a favorite among lads who jump with jive. His two appearances at Carnegie Hall were followed by rave notices and he is also consistently paged for college proms throughout the land.

"HOUR OF CHARM"

Playing for the wounded service men at Halloran hospital, Staten Island, New York, Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra offer a varied musical program, on Sunday at 9 p. m., over station WLW. A George M. Cohan medley, including "Yankee Doodle Boy," "You're a Grand Old Flag" and "Over There" opens the program. The soprano Vivien sings "Romance," by Walter Donaldson, after which the soldier audience joins the all-girl choir in singing "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." Evelyn's violin solo is "Besame Mucho" and the choir offers "Say a Prayer for the Boys Over There." Rosa Linda and Ruth are featured in a two-piano arrangement of "Pistol Packin' Mama," and the contralto Kathleen sings "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." The audience joins the choir in singing the hymn of the evening, "I'll Be Somewhere Listening," dedicated to the men at Halloran hospital.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Donald Dame, lyric tenor recently signed by the Metropolitan Opera, makes a return appearance on Lyn Murray's "To Your Good Health" on Friday at 5:15 p. m., over CBS, singing "The Night Is Young and You're So Beautiful," by Dana Suesse, and Deems Taylor's "Waters Ripple and Flow." The orchestra, under Murray's baton, plays "Speak Low," and the choir sings a pair of spirituals, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" and "The Old Ark's A-Moverin'."

Nadine Conner, busy as soloist on "Salute to Youth" and with opera assignments, will still find time to answer personal questions when she appears as a guest on "Nellie Revell Presents" over NBC Saturday at 9 a. m.

Don Rodney, featured baritone and guitarist of Xavier Cugat's "Dubonnet Date" show on the Blue chain, is scheduled to make a series of appearances to aid Los Angeles High School clubs in their war bond-and-stamp selling drive.

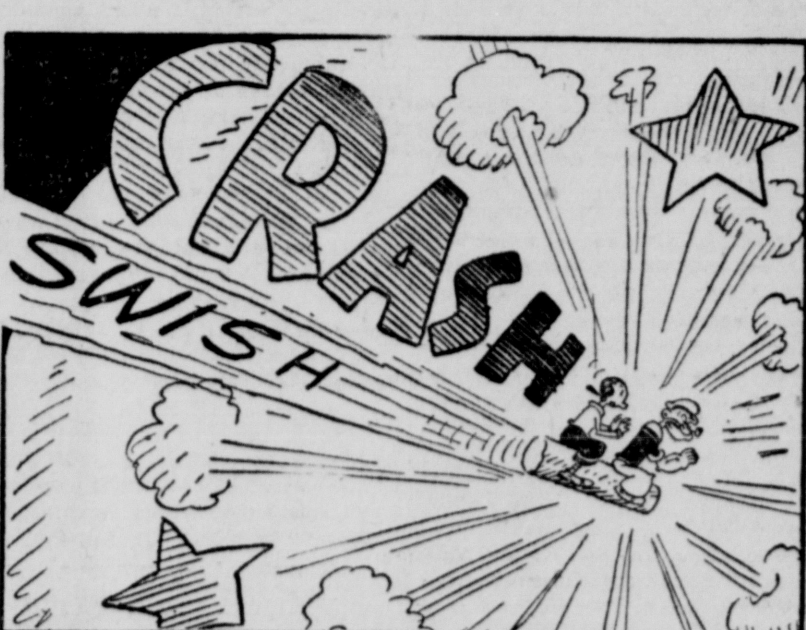

"Now when you die," Carlton E. Morse directed an "I Love a Mystery" radio actor, "I want a gurgling gasp and rattle. Make it sound as if your throat is cut—without cutting it, of course."

ARMY'S RELIEF FUND BOOSTED BY $1,800 TOTAL

NO PROFIT TO THEATRE

George Griffith Praised For Fine Campaign In Sale Of Tickets

Circleville's community made another splendid contribution to Uncle Sam's war effort Tuesday night when it put approximately $1,800 into the treasury of the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

The money was obtained through sales of tickets for the premiere performance in Circleville of Irving Berlin's great picture, "This Is The Army", shown in a crowded Grand theatre.

The premiere crowd started to move into the theatre shortly after 7:15 p. m. when the theatre doors were opened, and well before the curtain was to be pulled at 8:30 all seats were taken. Only enough tickets were sold to fill the theatre. None was reserved.

Salesmen Praised

Just before the picture was to be started, Dr. C. D. Phillips, president of the Rotary club, who served as spokesman for the civic committee which promoted ticket sales, thanked all who purchased tickets, and outlined the work being done by the Army Emergency Relief fund.

The speaker said that need for the Relief fund grows daily as the Army expands. Soldiers in need of money for personal reasons or for their families back home are permitted to borrow from the funds available. Trips home are financed in case of emergency, and many other undertakings are made possible through the Relief fund.

George C. Griffith, chairman of the "This Is The Army" committee, was praised by Dr. Phillips for his work. Others who were on the general committee included Miss Rose Good, who contacted women's organizations concerning ticket purchases, and J. Harold Limback, who was in charge of industrial solicitations. Dr. Phillips was in charge of solicitation of civic and men's clubs.

AER Gets Cash

Many of Circleville's industries and larger stores bought blocks of tickets, all employees of several firms being seated together in the theatre.

Every cent collected Tuesday night was contributed to the Emergency Relief fund, the Grand theatre management not receiving any money from the showing. However, "This Is The Army" starts a regular engagement Wednesday evening at the theatre.

The picture, praised by critics all over the nation, proved to be one of the finest seen in Circleville in many years. Its cast including 350 men from Army ranks, in addition to numerous Hollywood stars, among them George Murphy, George Tobias, Joan Leslie, Ronald Reagan, Alan Hale and Kate Smith. Irving Berlin, who wrote all music for the show, was also featured.

COMMANDER OF DESTROYER IN OHIO ON LEAVE

Lieutenant Herbert D. Sprenger, commander of the U. S. destroyer, the Barney, has arrived in Ohio from Charleston, S. C., for a 10-day leave. Sprenger's ship has been in active service for many months.

The lieutenant is spending part of his time in Washington C. H. with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sprenger, and with his sister, Miss Barbara, who has come home from Washington, D. C. on a vacation.

Lieutenant Sprenger is the husband of the former Dorothy Sampson of Circleville.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Nations were being sown all over again.

In fact a virtual League of Nations on food and rehabilitation seems to be in the works. Here is what is happening.
Yesterday, one day before the 44 United Nations and Associated Nations meet at Atlantic City, the Big Four—U. S., U. S. S. R., Britain, China—met in Washington and signed an agreement regarding the organization to be created at Atlantic City. In other words, before the 44 nations met, the Big Four decided for them the general structure they would have to OK.

This structure provides for a sort of assembly of 44 nations, similar to the League's assembly. Also it provides for a Central Committee of four nations, similar to the League Council. This Central Committee will run things. The smaller nations will meet once or twice a year to approve. This has advantages and disadvantages. The Central Committee will be streamlined and able to act quickly. Also it will have great political power, because food and clothing mean life or death. But among the Big Four the U. S. A. can easily be outvoted. The little countries, who have been our staunchest allies, especially Latin Americans, will not be represented.

FEWER TIRES FOR ALLIES

One thing not discussed at the Moscow conference was rubber tires. If the question had been raised, Russia would have been told that tires on Lend-Lease will have to be reduced sharply.

Reason is that U. S. trucks and buses are wearing their tires down to the fabric, and Jesse Jones's long ballyhooed synthetic tires are falling behind schedule. There is plenty of new rubber, but a dire lag in tire production.

Meanwhile, bus and truck transportation has never been more vital. Last year inter-city buses carried more passengers than the railroads (680 million compared with 669 million), though for fewer miles.

If they are crippled, the weight would be thrown back on the already struggling railroads. Also, many places would be without transportation, since 54,000 communities have no rail service.

The Army, OPA, ODT and the Rubber Director's Office are putting their heads together to find a way out. One solution will be a reduction of tires shipped on Lend-Lease. Russia alone was promised 500,000 this year, in addition to 2,000,000 already delivered.

NOTE: This commitment, plus the deal for shipping a whole tire factory to Russia, always gripped Big Bill Jeffers when he was Rubber Director. He explained the case to visitors by going through a pantomime of picking up the telephone and receiving instructions to ship a half million tires to Russia. Then he would say, "And on the other end of the line is the White House! What the hell can I do?"

TAX FIGHT
Here is how strained tax relations are between the Treasury, which wants a heavy tax bill, and

Kingston Flyer Honored

Gerald A. McAfee, former resident of Kingston and nephew of Mrs. Elmer J. Dodd, Pickaway township, has been honored by the Navy department as one of the heroes of the Pacific theatre.

McAfee is shown above being congratulated by Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air, as he was awarded the Navy Air Medal. McAfee is an aviation radioman first class, and was based on the U. S. S. Hornet, ill-fated aircraft carrier, for nine months, serving through Coral Sea, Midway and Guadalcanal battles.

In addition to the Air Medal, McAfee has also received the President's citation for heroism. In a letter from Secretary of the Navy Knox, McAfee was awarded the citation for "meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight as radioman and rear seat gunner of a scout bomber of the U. S. S. Hornet air group during action against enemy Japanese forces near Santa Cruz islands, October 26, 1942. Coolly and effectively performing his task in the face of extremely heavy fighter opposition, McAfee, by his skill and gallant devotion to duty, assisted in destruction of at least 15 Japanese fighters that were shot down by his group. His courageous conduct throughout the engagement reflects great credit on the United States Naval service."

Young McAfee has two brothers in service, Lieutenant Denton R. McAfee, bombardier in the Army air corps based in Africa, and James S. McAfee, carpenter's mate, second class, in the U. S. Navy, now in the British Isles.

All are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ira D. McAfee, who have removed from the Kingston community to Jackson, O., Route 2.

SERGEANT JOSEPH WING GETS POSTHUMOUS AWARD

Staff Sergeant Joseph Wing of Mechanicsburg, killed in air action over Europe, has been honored posthumously by the War department. The Fifth Service command, headquarters of which is at Fort Hayes, Columbus, announced Wednesday that President Roosevelt has authorized the Air Medal for the flyer.

Young Wing was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Wing, his mother a former resident of the Logan Elm community, and his father a widely known landscaper. The Air Medal will be presented to the flyer's father by Chaplain Ernest Sinfield, of Nichols General hospital, Louisville, Ky., at a requiem service to be held Thursday, Armistice Day, in the Church of Our Saviour, Mechanicsburg.

Since the death of the youth, Mr. and Mrs. Wing have lost another son in service.

A single youth took the Army and Navy V-12 examination conducted Tuesday at Circleville high school. He was John Smith, a graduate of Chillicothe high school who has been taking regular courses at Circleville high school this year as a refresher. Only pupils who are being graduated at the mid-year semester are eligible.

J. Wray Henry, CHS principal, said a much greater number of boys will take the examination next Spring when youths who are being graduated in the Spring will be eligible.

The same examination is given for Army and Navy with the student voicing his choice of services. It will be some time before young Smith learns whether he has been accepted.

the Ways and Means Committee, which shies away from 'heavy taxes: Congressmen will not let able Treasury Counsel Randolph Paul sit in the committee rooms when its own tax adviser Colin Stam is testifying.

This means that no one can ask disagreeable questions of Stam and puncture any ideas on how large revenue can be raised from low tax theories.

Meanwhile the Ways and Means Committee has marched up the hill in favor of 4 cent postage stamps and steep whiskey taxes, then marched down again. After weeks of birth-pangs it looks as if the new tax bill would be a mouse.

Milk and Cream Producers Subsidy Payments

Subsidy payments on milk and cream sales, payable to producers only, may be claimed in November for October sales.

Fluid milk payments will amount to to 35c per cwt. and cream to 4c per lb. butterfat. Each County AAA office is officially authorized to make the payment. A simple application will be available there soon.

Dairy company check stubs or receipts must be retained to prove the amount of milk or butterfat sold. It is not necessary to keep a record of feed costs.

This subsidy will help you to increase your production and your dairy profits. Market your milk and cream cooperatively for a further increase in profits to you.

OFFICIALS PLAN HOUSECLEANING AT COUNTY JAIL

With Kenneth Knece, 30-year-old robber now behind the walls of the Ohio penitentiary, court officials are expecting to move during the next two weeks to further clean out the Pickaway county jail. Knece is under a 10 to 25 year sentence for robbing Charles Ailles, Harrison, O.

Judge Meeker Terwilliger said Wednesday that the September term grand jury will probably be called soon, dates most likely being November 29 or December 6.

While Knece was regarded as the toughest prisoner held in the county jail in some years, several other prisoners who are classed not too far below Knece await indictment. Among them are Harold Dufore, former cab driver and army deserter, who choked the sheriff 10 days ago permitting Knece to escape for seven hours of freedom, and Charles Roy Boggs, Delaware, who ran from the jail but was caught almost immediately. Both Dufore and Boggs are held for automobile theft, the former for taking the car of Herbert Leist and the latter for stealing the Gilbert Starkey automobile.

Knece's younger brother, Harold, 17, was to go before Judge Lemuel B. Weldon in juvenile court Wednesday to face armed robbery charges. The Jackson township youth also has at least two check charges pending against him.

The judge pointed out that there are several others in jail whose cases should be placed before the grand jury. It is planned also to dispose of the cases just as soon as the grand jury returns indictments. Several men indicted by the last grand jury are still in the county jail awaiting trial.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION TO BE QUIET EVENT

Armistice Day—celebrated 25 years ago—will be observed quietly in Circleville Thursday with most public offices, some business places and schools being closed in observance of the national holiday.

Armistice Day services will be held Thursday at noon in St. Philip's Episcopal church with all churches of the city uniting for the half-hour session. The Rev. Clarence Swearingen of the Methodist church will speak.

New Holland will conduct the only civic event of the day, the village's Honor Roll to be unveiled before what is expected to be a large crowd.

Residents of New Holland, Atlanta and the entire community are expected to participate in the festivities marking unveiling of the Honor Roll. The Honor Roll was financed through public subscriptions.

Located in the center of the village, the newly-completed Honor Roll contains names of more than 200 men and women of the community who have gone into service.

Circleville and Pickaway county schools will close their doors for the day, this being the first year that the Ohio Department of Education has fixed Armistice Day as a holiday for school pupils throughout the state.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

Nations were being shown all over again.

In fact a virtual League of Nations on food and rehabilitation seems to be in the works. Here is what is happening.

Yesterday, one day before the 44 United Nations and Associated Nations meet at Atlantic City, the Big Four—U. S., U. S. S. R., Britain, China—met in Washington and signed an agreement regarding the organization to be created at Atlantic City. In other words, before the 44 nations met, the Big Four decided for them the general structure they would have to OK.

This structure provides for a sort of assembly of 44 nations, similar to the League's assembly. Also it provides for a Central Committee of four nations, similar to the League Council. This Central Committee will run things. The smaller nations will meet once or twice a year to approve.

This has advantages and disadvantages. The Central Committee will be streamlined and able to act quickly. Also it will have great political power, because food and clothing mean life or death. But among the Big Four the U. S. A. can easily be outvoted. The little countries, who have been our staunchest allies, especially Latin Americans, will not be represented.

FEWER TIRES FOR ALLIES

One thing not discussed at the Moscow conference was rubber tires. If the question had been raised, Russia would have been told that tires on Lend-Lease will have to be reduced sharply.

Reason is that U. S. trucks and buses are wearing their tires down to the fabric, and Jesse Jones's long ballyhooed synthetic tires are falling behind schedule. There is plenty of new rubber, but a dire lag in tire production.

Meanwhile, bus and truck transportation has never been more vital. Last year inter-city buses carried more passengers than the railroads (680 million compared with 669 million), though for fewer miles.

If they are crippled, the weight would be thrown back on the already struggling railroads. Also, many places would be without transportation, since 54,000 communities have no rail service.

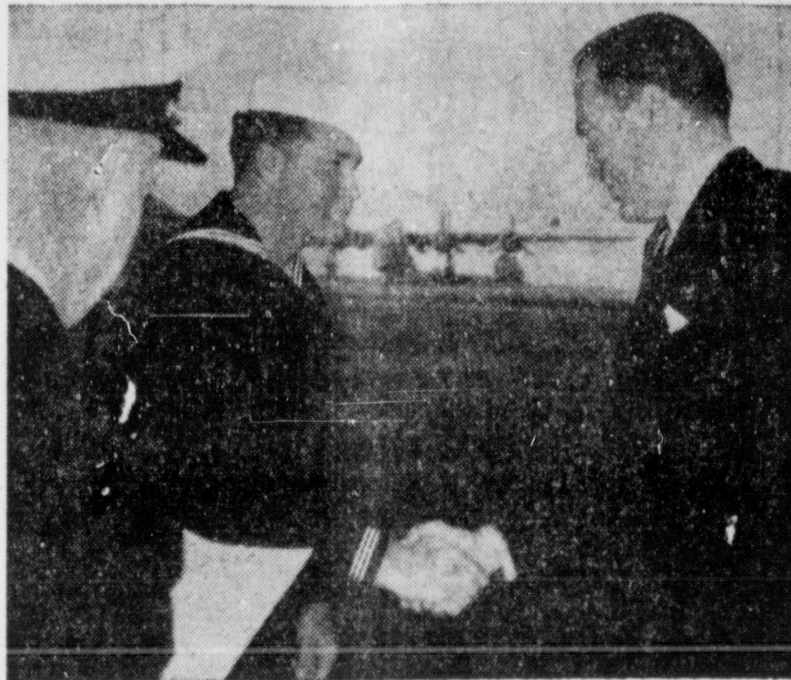

The Army, OPA, ODT and the Rubber Director's Office are putting their heads together to find a way out. One solution will be a reduction of tires shipped on Lend-Lease. Russia alone was promised 500,000 this year, in addition to 2,000,000 already delivered.

NOTE: This commitment, plus the deal for shipping a whole tire factory to Russia, always gripped Big Bill Jeffers when he was Rubber Director. He explained the case to visitors by going through a pantomime of picking up the telephone and receiving instructions to ship a half million tires to Russia. Then he would say, "And on the other end of the line is the White House! What the hell can I do?"

TAX FIGHT

Here is how strained tax relations are between the Treasury, which wants a heavy tax bill, and

Kingston Flyer Honored

Gerald A. McAfee, former resident of Kingston and nephew of Mrs. Elmer J. Dodd, Pickaway township, has been honored by the Navy department as one of the heroes of the Pacific theatre.

McAfee is shown above being congratulated by Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air, as he was awarded the Navy Air Medal. McAfee is an aviation radioman first class, and was based on the U. S. S. Hornet, ill-fated aircraft carrier, for nine months, serving through Coral Sea, Midway and Guadalcanal battles.

In addition to the Air Medal, McAfee has also received the President's citation for heroism. In a letter from Secretary of the Navy engagement reflects great credit on the United States Naval service. Young McAfee has two brothers in service, Lieutenant Denton R. McAfee, bombardier in the Army air corps based in Africa, and James S. McAfee, carpenter's mate, second class, in the U. S. Navy, now in the British Isles. All are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ira D. McAfee, who have removed from the Kingston community to Jackson, O., Route 2.

SERGEANT JOSEPH WING GETS POSTHUMOUS AWARD

Staff Sergeant Joseph Wing of Mechanicsburg, killed in air action over Europe, has been honored posthumously by the War department. The Fifth Service command, headquarters of which is at Port Hayes, Columbus, announced Wednesday that President Roosevelt has authorized the Air Medal for the flyer.

Young Wing was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Wing, his mother a former resident of the Logan Elm community, and his father a widely known landscaper.

The Air Medal will be presented to the flyer's father by Chaplain Ernest Sinfield, of Nichols General hospital, Louisville, Ky., at a requiem service to be held Thursday, Armistice Day, in the Church of Our Saviour, Mechanicsburg.

Since the death of the youth, Mr. and Mrs. Wing have lost another son in service.

The same examination is given for Army and Navy with the student voicing his choice of service. It will be some time before young Smith learns whether he has been accepted.

The Ways and Means Committee, which shies away from heavy taxes; Congressmen will not let able Treasury Counsel Randolph Paul sit in the committee rooms when its own tax adviser Colin Stam is testifying.

This means that no one can ask disagreeable questions of Stam and puncture any ideas on how large revenue can be raised from low tax theories.

Meanwhile the Ways and Means Committee has marched up the hill in favor of 4 cent postage stamps and steep whiskey taxes, then marched down again. After weeks of birth-pangs it looks as if the new tax bill would be a mouse.

Milk and Cream Producers Subsidy Payments

Subsidy payments on milk and cream sales, payable to producers only, may be claimed in November for October sales.

Fluid milk payments will amount to to 35c per cwt. and cream to 4c per lb. butterfat. Each County AAA office is officially authorized to make the payment. A simple application will be available there soon.

Dairy company check stubs or receipts must be retained to prove the amount of milk or butterfat sold. It is not necessary to keep a record of feed costs.

This subsidy will help you to increase your production and your dairy profits. Market your milk and cream cooperatively for a further increase in profits to you.

OFFICIALS PLAN ARMISTICE DAY HOUSECLEANING CELEBRATION TO BE QUIET EVENT

With Kenneth Knece, 30-year-old robber now behind the walls of the Ohio penitentiary, court officials are expecting to move during the next two weeks to further clean out the Pickaway county jail. Knece is under a 10 to 25 year sentence for robbing Charles Ailles, Harrison, O.

Judge Meeker Terwilliger said Wednesday that the September term grand jury will probably be called soon, dates most likely being November 29 or December 6.

While Knece was regarded as the toughest prisoner held in the county jail in some years, several other prisoners who are classed not too far below Knece await indictment. Among them are Harold Dufore, former cab driver and army deserter, who choked the sheriff 10 days ago permitting Knece to escape for seven hours of freedom, and Charles Roy Boggs, Delaware, who ran from the jail but was caught almost immediately. Both Dufore and Boggs are held for automobile theft, the former for taking the car of Herbert Leist and the latter for stealing the Gilbert Starkey automobile.

Knece's younger brother, Harold, 17, was to go before Judge Lemuel B. Weldon in juvenile court Wednesday to face armed robbery charges. The Jackson township youth also has at least two check charges pending against him.

The judge pointed out that there are several others in jail whose cases should be placed before the grand jury. It is planned also to dispose of the cases just as soon as the grand jury returns indictments. Several men indicted by the last grand jury are still in the county jail awaiting trial.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION TO BE QUIET EVENT

Armistice Day—celebrated 25 years ago—will be observed quietly in Circleville Thursday with most public offices, some business places and schools being closed in observance of the national holiday.

Armistice Day services will be held Thursday at noon in St. Philip's Episcopal church with all churches of the city uniting for the half-hour session. The Rev. Clarence Swearingen of the Methodist church will speak.

New Holland will conduct the only civic event of the day, the village's Honor Roll to be unveiled before what is expected to be a large crowd.

Residents of New Holland, Atlanta and the entire community are expected to participate in the festivities marking unveiling of the Honor Roll. The Honor Roll was financed through public subscriptions.

Located in the center of the village, the newly-completed Honor Roll contains names of more than 200 men and women of the community who have gone into service.

Circleville and Pickaway county schools will close their doors for the day, this being the first year that the Ohio Department of Education has fixed Armistice Day as a holiday for school pupils throughout the state.
